WOMEN'S HEALTH SEMINAR

Mark your calendar today for this year's Women's Health Seminar, to be held Thursday evening, November 8, at the Wells County 4-H Community Building. Check-in and refreshments begin at 6 p.m., with the program starting promptly at 6:25 p.m.

Open to women of all ages, this evening of education includes local health care professionals speaking on topics of interest and concern. Topics were chosen based on surveys completed by women attending past Women's Health Seminars.

Dr. Marcelo Gavilanez is the keynote speaker for the evening and will be discussing "Women & Hormones." Following his presentation, two breakout sessions will be offered. These sessions include "Herbs in Your Life," presented by pharmacist Mike Ankenbruck, and "Our Emotions, A Part of Our Lives," presented by licensed clinical social worker Sue Gratton. Participants are asked to identify which session they would prefer to attend when calling to register for the evening.

This event is brought to you by the Caylor-Nickel Foundation, in cooperation with Bluffton Regional Medical Center, Caylor-Nickel Clinic, P.C., Markle Medical Center and the Wells County Purdue Cooperative Extension Service.

Each woman at the seminar will receive a gift bag and be eligible for door prizes. Advanced registration is required. Please call 824-3210, ext. 5145, to register or for more information.

FIRST AID CLASS

A child on your t-ball team slides into third base and injures his arm during a game. The child's parents are not present. His arm is swelling and he cannot move his fingers. Are you prepared to handle this situation?

Bluffton Regional Medical Center is offering a first aid class to help prepare you for situations like this. Instructors certified by the National Safety Council will teach first aid skills that are essential when responding to breathing emergencies, injuries, bleeding and sudden illnesses. They will also teach prevention of disease transmission. The class will meet on Thursday, November 1, from 6:00-9:30 p.m., in the education center at Bluffton Regional South, 1100 South Main Street. A participant fee of $35.00 covers a first aid book and a certification card.

"The program is designed to provide participants with the skills and knowledge to care for injuries and illnesses in an emergency," explains Michelle Gentis, community education coordinator for Bluffton Regional. "The National Safety Council provides the most accurate, easy-to-understand and current materials available".

Class size is limited. Contact Michelle Gentis at (219) 824-3210, ext. 3844 for additional information and to register.

FUND RAISER FOR HOSPICE

For the third consecutive year, the Caylor-Nickel Foundation will be holding a fall fundraiser to benefit Family Hospice of Northeast Indiana. The Foundation is one of three agencies that share in the governance of the Hospice program along with Adams County Memorial Hospital and the Wells County Health Services Foundation.

"The growth of Hospice has been truly phenomenal", states John Stead, Executive Director of the Foundation. "When we held our wreath auction three years ago we were still a struggling organization with a daily census in the teens. Today the daily census is running at 35 patients a day."

The growth has led Hospice to purchase its own building in Berne so it can adequately take care of its increasing staff. The growing number of patients also points out the need for specialized training for staff as well as a reserve fund if patient's hospice benefit's run their course. "Once we accept a patient we care for them as long as they need us", stated SueAnn Reynolds, Executive Director of Hospice.

This year the Foundation will be holding a benefit auction on Saturday, November 10 at the Parlor City Country Club. Once again area merchants have demonstrated their remarkable generosity by providing a number of silent as well as "live" auction items. "It has been so wonderful to see the positive response when we ask for support", says Sharon DeRoo, the Volunteer Coordinator for Hospice and a member of the auction committee. "It shows me how respected our program is and just makes me proud to be a part of it."

The event will include dinner and is scheduled to begin at 6 p.m. with the live auction starting at 8 p.m. Tickets are $25 and can be reserved by either calling the Caylor-Nickel Foundation at 824-5019 or Family Hospice at 589-8598. The deadline for ticket orders is November 1.

SENIOR CTR. NEWS

We are excited to announce that senior computer classes are starting! Classes will be held at 3:00 and 6.30 each Thursday at the Job Works office on Flaxmill Rd., Huntington, beginning October 25. Roger Buzzard is the instructor and he is offering the first few classes free of charge. Fees will be kept to a minimum. Each session should last no more than an hour, but students are welcome to stay longer to practice and ask questions. No reservation is necessary, just show up. Call Holly Saunders at the Huntington County Council on Aging for more details, 356-3006 or toll-free 1-800-491-3006.

The second annual Holiday Gift Auction is coming up to raise funds for the HAT (Huntington Area Transportation.) It will be held in the Heritage Building at Hiers Park on November 17. Doors will open at 10:30 a.m. It will be a great opportunity for Christmas shopping. The HAT provides transportation for all of Huntington County, regardless of age. Fares are kept very low to better fit the needs of the riders. Seniors ride for donations only. For this reason, we need to raise additional funds to continue this beneficial service at the low rates. Plan to attend for your enjoyment, shopping, and to assist this valuable program. Concessions will be available. Call the Senior Center with any questions, 356-3006.

MINK AS CONSULTANT

Wendy Mink has recently been hired to serve as the Huntington County Child Care Resource and Referral (CCR) Consultant. Dependent Care Management, Inc of Zionsville, contracts locally to offer this free service to families, providers, and employers needing information on child care. Wendy served as the Huntington County CRR Consultant a few years ago and has prior experience as a licensed, home child care provider. "I am excited to serve as the Huntington County CRR Consultant again. Many improvements have been evolving since I left 2 years ago."

Some of the projects she will be contributing toward include the Huntington County Work/Life Task force, a business initiative currently focusing on the need for off-shift and back-up child care for its employees, and the development of a mentoring program for family home child care providers. The State has also made changes in the Child Care Development Fund (CCDF) program that provides subsidy for child care expenses. Wendy will be inspecting child care providers' homes who receive subsidy payments to ensure that they meet the new State guidelines of Senate Bill 110. Another legislative change is in the area of licensing. Newly licensed providers will be required to obtain a Child Development Associate (CDA) certificate within 3 years of licensure. "Our state is really focusing on quality child care. Parents want assurance that

THANK YOU TO ALL WHO MADE THE AMERICAN CANCER SOCIETY'S MAKING STRIDES AGAINST BREAST CANCER WALK A SUCCESS

Fort Wayne, Indiana - On October 13, 2001, the American Cancer Society held its annual Making Strides Against Breast Cancer walk in Headwaters Park West with 2400 participants raising approximately $126,500.00. The walk is the nation's largest, single-market breast cancer fund-raiser. October is Breast Cancer Awareness Month and we would like to take time to thank you for assisting in the effort to get the information out to everyone and making the day a true success.

Proceeds from the event support breast cancer early detection and advocacy programs, support services for patients and their families, and breast cancer research. The American Cancer Society is the nation's largest non-governmental supporter of breast cancer research. "We are thrilled and thankful to everyone who made today's event such a success," said Denise Kallmyer, Director of Volunteerism. "Making Strides Against Breast Cancer is truly a historic event as a result of the efforts of hundreds of women, men and children who joined together today to fight this devastating disease."

In addition to raising funds for breast cancer programs and research, Making Strides salutes the breast cancer survivor. It also raises consciousness and visibility for the importance of early detection, especially for under-served and underinsured women.

Thanks to your efforts, you have helped to contribute to the almost $50 million that will be raised in 48 cities across the country. For more information about breast cancer research, call the American Cancer Society at 219.471.3911.

HALLOWEEN PERSISTS DESPITE OPPONENTS

After thousands of years and the efforts of countless holy men, Halloween still exists. It persists, in spite of all efforts by detractors throughout the ages, including the present.

It evolved from Samhain, the New Year of the Celts celebrated six centuries before Christ. That celebration was dedicated to the evil creatures of the underworld. It called attention to the dangers of the cold, early darkness, and the barren ground of late fall.

Human beings, it was said, would mingle with the souls of the dead during Samhain. To fool evil spirits, they disguised themselves as creatures of the underworld. They built bonfires to light the nights and to purify their animals.

Over the next 1,200 years, many Celts were converted to Christianity. In 601 Pope Gregory the Great urged missionaries to tolerate these native customs and even allow the sacrifice of animals, that is, if the Celts would give up the sacrifice of humans.

In the 8th century, Pope Gregory II declared Nov. 1 to be All Hallows Day, or All Saints Day. The evening before was to be All Hallows Eve, a day honoring Christians who died for the faith.

The Protestants called it Reformation Day because Martin Luther nailed his 95 Theses to the door of the Church of All Saints in Wittenberg, Germany, on Oct. 31, 1517. Luther didn't like Halloween either.

In order to offer up to date referral services, Wendy will be contacting child care providers to update her records as well as to talk with them about what role she can play in their business. "Our county really needs a provider association to unite the care givers. It helps them with their day to day needs and gives them a voice on issues that effect the child care profession." Community agencies may also be contacted for her database, so inquiring parents can be given resources for their particular need.

COUNCIL NOTES

President Tony Manry conducted a short meeting of the Van Buren Town Council on Wednesday evening, Oct. 17. The meeting opened at 7 p.m. with all in attendance repeating the Pledge to the American Flag.

Minutes of the previous meeting were approved as submitted.

Council voted to send $100.00 to the IACT Foundation to be sent to victims of the Sept. 11 tragedy in New York City and Washington DC.

The Grant County and Marion Street Department was interested in obtaining the chipper from Van Buren. They would allow Van Buren to use the chipper. The chipper had been obtained with Grant money and $4,000 paid by Van Buren. Council felt they should receive the amount they had paid as their share.

It was noted the chipper could be traded for a jet vac in order for the Street Department to be able to clean sewer lines.

On Nov. 1 Jim Webb, Tony Manry and Michelle Sexton are scheduled to meet with IDEM.

Officer Pat Collins presented his report to Council from the Police Department.

Both police vehicles were reported to be running well.

There were five vehicles listed as junk or abandoned cars.

It was announced plans have been completed for Halloween, and all officers are expected to be on duty.

Officers were to meet on Thursday with the Grant County Sheriff's Department for training on terrorism.

On Oct. 29 an Anthrax class is schedules at Gas City for the Police Officers.

Michelle Sexton attended Clerk's School on Thursday for Budget planning.

Superintendent Jim Webb gave his report.

Water hydrants are to be flushed Oct. 29 and 30.

There had been repairs made to the back hoe. The pick-up was to have brake repairs.

Residents are asked to clean up leaves on the street and sidewalk in front of their homes. The leaves should be bagged and set out for town employees to pick up. It was also reminded that leaves are not to be burned on the streets.

Work had been completed on the South water tower. Many pigeons were reported roosting on top of both water towers.

Town equipment was being made ready for winter.

Council was unhappy with the work at the new water plant.

Webb was asked to check on making Hill Street one-way going East from Washington to Main Street.

The next Council meeting will be held Wednesday evening, Nov. 7.

GAYED PARTICIPATES

Parkview Huntington Hospital is currently taking part in research that may play an important role in the future of breast cancer and melanoma treatment.

Huntington surgeon Nabil Gayed, MD, is participating in a nationwide Breast Cancer Sentinel Lymph Node Registry aimed at determining whether sentinel lymph node biopsies can predict the spread of breast cancer to the underarm lymph nodes. The study is being coordinated nationally by the University of Louisville.

According to Dr. Gayed, the primary goal of this research is to avoid making patients go through unnecessary discomfort associated with traditional procedures. "Sentinel lymph node biopsy provides a way to target the first node that receives lymphatic drainage from a tumor to see if the remainder of the nodes need to be removed," he says. "This may prevent the loss of lymph glands among 70-75% of women with breast cancer and many patients with melanoma."

Breast cancer most often spreads to the axillary (underarm) lymph nodes. Traditional axillary lymph node dissection can be used to determine if the cancer has spread, but this involves removing most of the lymph nodes for examination. Dr. Gayed explains that this isn't always necessary. "Sometimes we find out that the patient has cancer," he says, "but we also may find that the lymph nodes were not involved and did not need to be removed."

In sentinel lymph node biopsy procedures, the surgeon identifies 1 or more lymph nodes to which the cancer most likely would spread first. Studies have shown that if these sentinel lymph nodes test negative for cancer, it is very unlikely that the cancer has spread to other lymph nodes.

In addition to studying the procedure on its own merits, the research is also aimed at determining whether sentinel lymph node biopsies are useful to general surgeons in community-based hospitals. "Sentinel lymph node biopsies are fairly well-established in larger centers," he says. "Before making it more generally available throughout the country, we want to see how applicable it is in community hospitals."

Dr. Gayed's research is being funded in part by the Huntington Memorial Foundation, which is sponsored by the Huntington County Medical Society. According to the group's Chairperson Marjorie Hiner, who also serves on the PHH Board of Directors, Dr. Gayed's research was a good match with the Medical Memorial Foundation's mission. "We hope to improve healthcare services for our residents," she says. "Dr. Gayed's request was considered to be of vital concern for the betterment of the healthcare provided at Parkview Huntington."

Nabil Gayed, MD, FACS, is a Board Certified General Surgeon who specializes in general surgery and laparoscopic surgery. He is also a Fellow of the American College of Surgeons.

For more information about Breast Cancer Sentinel Lymph Node Registry, please call Parkview Huntington Hospital at (219) 355-3042 or 800-533-2252, ext. 53042.

ATHLETIC TRAINER TO HNHS

Every high school sports season is filled with exciting moments that highlight the skill and athleticism of the players on the field. Unfortunately, each season is also filled with injuries that take young athletes out of the game.

Now, thanks to a new partnership between Parkview Huntington Hospital and Huntington North High School, local high school athletes should spend more time on the field and less time on the sidelines. PHH's Richard Garber has taken on a new role as HNHS's full-time athletic trainer. A Certified Athletic Trainer (ATC), Garber will work to help HNHS's athletes stay healthy and, when an injury occurs, help them recover quickly and completely.

According to Holly Sale, PHH's Director of Rehabilitation and Wellness, the ATC Program is designed to meet an important community need. "This is just another example of PHH's support of community initiatives," Sale said. "This is a great program and a true community benefit. We're hoping to provide the athletes with the best of care."

HNHS's Athletic Director Joe Santa says the biggest benefit of the ATC program is that it helps minimize injuries and keep kids in the game. "Just this fall we have 8 sports and 250 athletes, and they need treatment on a daily basis," Santa explains. "Without someone here every day, the kids would be at risk."

Santa adds that for the athletes who need rehabilitation services, PHH's relationship with Orthopedics Northeast's Steven Wynder, MD, has provided improved access and minimized delays in the delivery of care. "The program is going great," he says. "Our liaison with Dr. Wynder, who's here one day a week, makes that connection so much easier."

Garber brings a wealth of experience to his position. At his alma mater, Anderson University, Garber majored in athletic training and health education. He has also worked at a variety of events, including NCAA Division 1 track meets, Olympic swimming trials, and the Hoosier State Games. One of the highlights of his career was a trip overseas to provide training services at a Chicago Bears/San Francisco 49ers exhibition in Berlin, Germany.

Garber is familiar with the needs of high school athletes through his work at Marion High School during the past seven years. He decided to pursue the ATC position at PHH after learning about the high standards at Huntington North High School. "The school system has a lot to offer," Garber says. "And when I was at Marion I found out that Huntington's teams were always competitive."

Garber's duties include treating students in the training room and being available at home games to attend to injuries as they happen. When one of HNHS's teams is on the road, Garber consults with the coaching staff to learn of athlete injuries that will need attention when the bus comes back to Viking Lane. PHH Physical Therapist and Certified Athletic Trainer Ryan Fuhman will assist Garber two days a week and when the sports schedule becomes crowded with multiple events. Fuhman will also complete injury evaluations and help with rehabilitation services.

As Garber watches HNHS's athletes excel, he can take a degree of pride knowing that he and PHH are a part of their success. For his part, however, it's enough to just help student athletes get the most out of their time on the field. "I'm so happy that I can be a part of this program," said Garber.

"I'm looking forward to helping to care for Huntington County's athletes."

however, they must depend upon the expertise of emergency dispatchers to help them prepare to meet the needs of patients as they approach an emergency scene.

Now, thanks to some recent training sessions, Parkview Huntington Hospital's dispatch team is providing improved services to responders and those who rely on them. Through a National Academy of Emergency Medical Dispatch's Emergency Medical Dispatch (EMD) course, PHH's dispatchers learned about the latest theories and practices affecting the emergency services profession. The session topics included emergency medical concepts, obtaining information from callers, and providing emergency care instructions.

Tammy Caley, PHH's Dispatch Supervisor/EMS Operations Coordinator, says that this training will help PHH's dispatchers give appropriate aid and response information to callers, regardless of the nature of their call. "We are the first contact with the caller," she explains. "Having this training will help get aid to the caller as quickly as possible."

Caley adds that this training is increasingly being recognized as an integral component of Emergency Medical Service (EMS) systems. "EMD training is becoming a standard practice in the United States," she says. Given PHH's responsibility for dispatching Parkview Health's Samaritan helicopters in addition to its ambulance fleet, Caley notes that it is especially important for dispatchers to receive the highest quality

PROJECT LINUS DONATES

When a child is admitted to the hospital, a comfort item like a favorite toy, blanket, or stuffed animal can make an unpleasant experience a little more manageable. Sometimes, however, circumstances prevent a child from bringing something with them from home. That's where Project Linus steps in.

The organization, named for the Peanuts character "Linus," provides gift blankets that children keep with them during their hospital stay and take home after they are discharged. And just like Linus, who could always be comforted from the small swatch of blue flannel that was constantly at his side, the blankets give each recipient the strength they need to make it through a difficult time.

Susan Burton, Project Linus's Fort Wayne/Huntington Chapter Coordinator, recently visited Parkview Huntington Hospital to deliver 10 blankets for use with the facility's youngest patients. Burton says that a local organization called the Peacemaker's Quilt Club, along with several individual donors, made it possible for Project Linus to make a gift to PHH. "So far we have collected 45 blankets," Burton said.

Project Linus has delivered over 300,000 blankets to children in the United States and abroad since 1995. They achieve their mission by the cooperative effort of hundreds of individual chapters in the United States and abroad.

"Our main objective is to provide a blanket for the children so they have something that they can take with them," said Burton. "We want every child to feel the love and security with every blanket."

For more information about Project Linus, please call Susan Burton at (219)358-8631.

PRESCRIPTION MEDICINE FREE!

WOODLAND HILLS, CA. With the attack on the World Trade Center and the Pentagon, domestic legislation has been delayed, especially measures like prescription drugs for the elderly. This forces seniors on fixed incomes to keep on struggling to buy their medications.

Here is important help all seniors should know about. There are little known private programs from the pharmaceutical manufacturers providing their prescription medicine absolutely free. Under these programs, drug companies provide their medicines to seniors who can't afford them. Last year Pfizer delivered free drugs for 600,000 people.

Steve Reynolds, the president of Harsonhill, a prescription information publishing company, says he publishes a book that shows seniors how to get their medicine free. There are over 60 pharmaceutical companies with assistance programs covering the majority of doctor prescribed medications. "And, there are more manufacturers with free programs that are not publicized," Reynolds said. The information in the book enables a patient and their doctor to quickly identify the proper program. "This up-to-date information, proper documentation and formal application forms are key to the acceptance process."

For the latest information, how you can qualify, a listing of over 1,500 medicines, their manufacturers and the proper forms, contact Harsonhill, 22425 Ventura Boulevard, #190, Woodland Hills, CA 91364 or visit their internet web site www.Prescriptions4FREE.com.

PRESCHOOL STORYTIME

On Wednesday October 17th Little Panther Preschool attended Storytime. They were greeted at the library by the Van Buren Fire Chief Mr. Bob Jones and Volunteer Firemen Mr. Roy Bollett and Mrs. Brenda Huffman. The children were able to watch Mrs. Huffman put all the fire protective clothing on. She would need this clothing to go into a burning building to save a person. This way the children would not be afraid if they would see a fireman with this gear on. They were told 911 was the number to call if help was needed to put out a fire. The fire chief shared with them some actions they were to take if a fire started in their house for example leave the house at once. If you can't get out of the house through the door, don't hide in a closet or under a bed. Try and find a window you can get out of. If there are no windows, go into a room where there is no fire, shut the door, then to a window and yell for help or if no window lay flat on the floor and yell for help. Mr. Jones answered some of the questions the children had. Then the children went outside and had their picture taken in front of the Fire Engine. They each received paper cards of Sparky's ABC of fire safety. The children gave the firefighters a Big Thank- You and a thank-you card with their names on it.

The children checked out two books to take home and enjoy. Next Storytime will be October 31st.

Those attending were: Drew Ashley, Jill Nevil, Amy Kerr, Samantha Kessinger, Jaedyn Beck, Caitlin Imhoff, Will Bratcher, Kortney Peer, Sam VanHaften, Blake Bollhoefer, PJ Jones, Erin Tate, Emily Webb, Krissy, Karlee Laypoole, Teacher-Ellen Gray, Megan Fetter, Helper-Mrs. Jane VanHaften, Colleen Mealer, Elise Brandow, Autumn Harmon

JOY CLASS MEETS

The JOY Class of the United Church of Christ in Warren, IN held their regular meeting on October 20, 2001 at 6:30 p.m. in the Corner Depot Restaurant in Bluffton, IN. Co-host for the meeting were Larry and Roselyn Poulson and Marvin and Rosemary Zeller.

Following the delicious meal devotions were given by Rosemary Zeller. She read from two articles written by Rev Don Jennings in 1977. His writings at that time really brought out the way our world is today in 2001.

The Class president, Gordon Laymon held a brief business meeting. The next meeting will be in November and is provided by the officers of the class.

Those enjoying the evening were the committee and Betty and Harold Parker, Sharon and Bernard Gebhart, LouAnn And Hugh Shafer, Opal and Bob Brubaker, Eileen and Charlie Dye, Janice and Richard Brubaker, Patty Butler, Peggy and Jerry Wilson and Ellen and Gordon Laymon.

AFTER SCHOOL STORYTIME

Seventeen children attended Storytime. The children were greeted by two Police Officers from the Grant County Police Department. They were Mr. Ray Webb of Dept. 107 and Mr. Tom Hack of Dept R-109. The Children Section of the library was set up for Finger Printing. Everyone had to fill out a child identification sheet and put their age. Then the Officers told them to put their fingers in the ink and press down on the paper. Oh, the many different kinds of finger prints we had.

We played a game called, Who Stole the Cookie from the Cookie Jar. They each put their thumb print into a hat. Officer Webb drew out one of the prints and that was the villain. The print was taped on the cookie jar. The children then had to compare prints and guess who stole the cookie. The winner was Icily Cromer. She guessed her own print and won a brown dog.

The children had some questions for the Officers. One of the questions. Can I try on the handcuffs? That was all it took. We soon found out how well the handcuffs worked. The children were cuffed up to each other, around posts, hands behind their backs.

They were having a great time. Then we went outside and saw the police car. The children were able to hear the siren and to sit inside the car and ask questions. The Police Officers made it so much fun for the kids. We want to thank them. We gave the police officers a thank-you card with the children's thumb print on it.

Refreshments of pudding, popcorn and coolaid were enjoyed by all.

The Next time we meet, will be Friday, October, 26th. starting at 10:30 until 12.00. We are going to have a craft day. Come and join in on the fun.

Attending were: Jaedyn Beck, Maryrose Burns, David Irwin, Kayla Purvis, Ross Jones, Korisa Kitts, Zach Hodge, Josh Lawson, Tia Henkel, Loren Blessing, Harley Denham, Conner Pannell, Icily Cromer, Bobby Tate, Cassie Davis, Matthew Nelson, Brittinn Davis.

NEW PRODUCTS — THEY'RE EVERYWHERE!

I have never seen so many new products that are "hawked" on either the Internet or on TV! What is happening in this world! The consumer has to be on his toes to keep from overbuying. They (meaning the carnival-like criers) know exactly what to pitch and when to pitch. Using the word pitch is like the first step for the buyer to get his or her feet wet. The "pitch" is going to make the proposed buyer feel that he or she has to buy this item to be in the game. It works too!

I won a Zenith Record Player and FM and AM Radio in 1964. It plays records in speeds of 45, 33, and 78. I have not used the 78 speed, no records of that speed. This is in a beautiful wood console case. It has balanced sound. This is just one example of a radio that is well ahead of its time.

Another item that needs mentioning. A Schwinn bicycle. It is in the garage. It has no gearshifts, no transmissions, it is just a bicycle.

With these two examples we go now to the new products. We have a Boze radio in the kitchen that will do everything except the dishes. You can set it, for any time, any 24 hours that is on the clock, it will play any station you choose, at any time. It has a remote, another gadget to keep track of. When you are in the kitchen you are there to eat, work, or just passing through. Why do we need this complicated piece of equipment to entertain us here?

We have more remotes around the house than we need. Now you can get a bed with two remotes — that's another story!

Secondly the bicycle. Being the advanced age I get used to the older type inventions. Two wheels, frame, handlebars, brakes on the pedals, etc. Have you had occasion to ride a bike lately? Transmissions, mostly made in France, handle bars that are down really low, or up rather high, a saddle or seat, postage size, with no cushion quality. The bike is made for mountains, rivers, peaks and valleys. It will take you there whether you want to go there or not.

Roncois noted for gadgets. They slice, dice, shoot, toot and even take your money in equal payments. George Foreman even gets into the act with a larger-than-life electric skillet.

In closing I would like to mention inventions that make sense. This is my opinion only. Mr. Mudd, the guy that came up with the mud-flap, should be commended. This was a good invention. It serves the purpose that it was designed for. The Pop off valve for the pressure cooker — this was another bright idea that is appreciated by Moms everywhere. She does not need to scrape off noodles and beef off the kitchen ceiling anymore, thanks to the pop off valve. Lastly the Post-In-Notes. They serve a purpose, what it is I don't know, but the colors sure look good around this dismal office.

I'll write again.

VACATION TIME AGAIN

We sisters had decided we would not put a write-up of our vacation in the newspaper this year as it gets repetitious and was not of interest to others, as this was the tenth year the Stanley Sisters vacationed together.

WELL after many people asking us when our vacation news was going to be reported, we relented.

There was no big surprises or events in our vacation this year. We stayed at our niece's lakefront home at Big Lake. The home was listed "for sale" and was vacant, so she invited us to use it. It is a beautiful home with 4 very large bedrooms and 3 bathrooms, decks upstairs and downstairs, so we had plenty of room.

Since it was empty that meant we had to take everything from toothpicks to a refrigerator with us.....no problem. With four vans, a pickup truck and a car everything was delivered and I don't remember that we ever needed anything we didn't have on hand. Thanks to Ron King.

The weekend was spent getting settled in, exploring the area, getting acquainted with neighbors and relaxing. Everyone attended the First U. Methodist Church in Columbia City on Sunday.

On Monday Rita and Mary worked, Jean and Laura went to the dentist and Evelyn had a Doll Club meeting in Elkhart. Since Mary travels to Ft. Wayne, Decatur and Bluffton on her job, Pat, Janet, Brenda, Kate and Mona went with her and they shopped while Mary did her work...FUN FUN FUN.

Of course Shishewana was on our list and we loaded our vehicles with "precious finds". One day was spent in South Bend on a shopping trip and we again brought back many "treasures". We filled the utility room with all our special purchases.

The weather was not ideal for a lake vacation, however, it didn't really bother us as we spent much of our time playing games along with a lot of cooking and eating. With 10 cooks we really come up with a variety of delicious meals. We don't plan meals, but everyone usually brings an item or two, then we grocery shop and meals just happen.

We all agree that the best part of our vacation is the time we spend together having devotions, visiting and playing games. There are always tricks being played on each other and Pat (the beautician) usually ends up setting up her beauty shop for some of us.

We don't usually watch much television, but due to the terrorist attacks, we spent a great deal of time huddled around our small 13" TV. On Friday evening we all took our candles out to the beach and held our own Memorial Service, singing songs and praying. Last year when we went on vacation to our niece's home in New Jersey, we visited downtown New York and the twin towers. Our niece Greta Lesh and her husband now live in New York during the week, and we received word from them on Tuesday evening.

When our ten days were up and we had to pack to come home, we had a small problem, but Ron and Kate solved it. We had much more to bring back than we had taken, so Ron brought his truck and made several trips hauling the excess home. Thanks to all of our husbands for their efforts in "keeping the home fires burning" while we were gone. We keep saying that one of these years we will take them with us I doubt that ever happens, as I know they wouldn't enjoy it??? Those enjoying the vacation were Brenda Kendall, Kate King, Rita Benefiel, Mona Pinkerton, Janet Daugherty, Pat Furnish, Mary Shaw, Jean Pilgrim, Evelyn Lindstrom and Laura Mae Smithley.

Cystic fibrosis (CF) is a genetic disease affecting approximately 30,000 children and adults in the US. A defective gene causes the body to produce an abnormally thick, sticky mucus. This abnormal mucus leads to chronic and life-threatening lung infections and impairs digestion. Currently, there is no cure.

Foundation-supported scientists, however, are writing a remarkable medical success story. They are quickly translating what they learn about the CF gene and CF cells in the laboratory into promising new treatments. Based on their success, landmark gene therapy studies and clinical trials on new drug treatments are now underway.

INEXPENSIVE FIXES TO HOME ENERGY-EATERS

Five Products Under $10 Can Cut A Chunk Out Of Energy Bills (NAPSA)-Have soaring energy prices left your wallet a bit empty lately? Don't lose your cool because of wasted energy and too-high electric bills. Energy-efficiency is as easy as a quick trip to your local hardware store.

Protect yourself from skyrocketing bills by trouble-shooting the energy-eaters in your home, such as drafts and leaks. With a small investment in a few inexpensive, yet, energy-conscious products, you can cut a chunk out of your household energy bills.

Begin your attack on energy-eaters with these five products under $10:

¥ Caulk Your Home's Leaks (www.osisealants.com)

Did you know that a 1/8 inch gap around two door frames can let in as much cold air as leaving a 12 inch window opened 6 inches all winter long? Fortunately, caulking around windows, doors and vents is an easy and inexpensive project for even the beginning do-it-yourselfer. Products, such as, Polyseamseal® All-Purpose Adhesive Caulk provide easy-to-use, weather-resistant seals against air, moisture, dirt and dust.

¥ Replace Air Filters (www.precisionaire.com) Dirty air filters in heating and cooling units restrict airflow and can cause your system to run longer, increasing energy use. Replace your air filters monthly for maximum benefit. In addition to energy savings, products such as, NaturalAire filters also reduce dust, pollen and lint in the air.

¥ Stop Door Drafts Cold! (www.duckproducts.com) If you can see daylight around door frames, weatherstripping is a must! A drafty door can lose valuable heat or air conditioned air in your home and let in the unwanted outdoor air. Products, such as, Duck® brand Super "V" Weatherstripping provides easy installation and a special "V"

THE RIGHT EQUIPMENT ON AND OFF THE FIELD

(NAPSA)-Most parents wouldn't think of sending a child onto a sports field without the right equipment.

Yet many parents are willing to expose their child to an incomplete work station without the right equipment.

Kids today will spend more years on the computer than their parents, so it is important they start out early with an ergonomically correct work area to make computer use healthier and more comfortable.

3M's patented Gel Wrist rests will support and conform to your child's wrists and palms unlike any other type of wrist rest. The soft cushioning gel in the wrist rests encourages a neutral wrist position to reduce strain and improve comfort. The silky smooth surface is non-irritating and non-chafing.

With the Internet and computer software, children are spending more time mousing. The 3M Precise mousing surface features patented micro-groove technology that improves the traction of your child's mouse trackball at fast speeds. And the built-in wrist rest ensures they maintain the correct position. 3M even has a gel wrist rest and precise mousing surface specifically for an optical mouse.

The wrist rest products can be purchased with or without mouse pads at your local Office Depot or Staples office supply store.

To obtain tips, checklists for evaluating and improving a workstation and information on products, visit www.3m.com/ergonomics.

FLAX AND SOY IMPROVE HEALTH AND NUTRITION

(NAPSA)-There is good news for women experiencing the discomforts of menopause and who want a natural alternative to Hormone Replacement Therapy (HRT). Flaxseed and soy are said to not only ease common menopausal discomforts such as hot flashes, but also to promote healthy hearts for both men and women, and provide the body with the essential fatty acids it needs.

A Boston-based natural foods company offers a convenient way to add flax and soy to the diet. The all-natural ingredients in Zoe Foods Flax & Soy Granola and Bars offer many nutritional and health benefits from phytoestrogens, fiber, protein, and omega-3 fatty acids.

The original Flax & Soy Granola took a unique route to market. "Our granola is based on a recipe my mother developed to help reduce her menopausal hot flashes," said Tori Stuart, founder and president of Zoe Foods. "My mother's physician's advised her against using HRT because she was at high risk for breast cancer. After extensive reading and discussions with physicians, she learned that flaxseed and soy are both natural ways to control fluctuating levels of estrogen. Since she couldn't find a product that blended these two ingredients, she made her own. The frequency and intensity of her hot flashes lessened and menopause no longer interferes with her life."

Stuart's mother and father both enjoy sitting down to a healthy breakfast of flax and soy granola.

The granola and the bars contain naturally sweetened blends of dry-roasted soybeans, ground flaxseed, grains and fruit. Research shows that incorporating flaxseed and soy into the diet may improve heart health by reducing blood cholesterol and may minimize menopausal hot flashes. Ground flaxseed also contains soluble and insoluble fiber that can help maintain a healthy digestive system. A diet high in fiber (FDA recommends 25-30 grams per day) and low in saturated and trans fat can help promote cardiovascular function.

Flax & Soy Granola is available with Cranberries and Currants or Almonds and Oats, and Flax & Soy Bars come in Chocolate and Apple Crisp.

More information is available by visiting www.zoefoods.com.

MATH HELP FOR MIDDLE SCHOOLERS

(NAPSA)-Educators say in today's high tech world, one of the most important subjects a child can master is math.

Yet results from the latest Third International Mathematics and Science Study showed that, when compared with the rest of the world, American middle school math scores don't always add up.

To help combat this disturbing trend, a number of parents give their children extra math help at home. Many use software packages such as StudyWorks!™ Middle School Deluxe Math, from MathSoft. The product provides kids with skill-building resources that allow them to master math skills at home.

The software covers the complete curriculum for grades six through eight and features 120 complete unit lessons. All of the math areas covered (arithmetic, geometry, algebra, etc.) help develop basic math concepts, critical thinking skills and problem-solving techniques.

Lessons on the software are reinforced by the StudyWorks! Online Web-based tutorial, testing and learning services.

For a limited time, the software includes Middle School Deluxe Science, geared towards helping kids master middle school science concepts.

For more information, visit www.studyworksonline.com.

But nothing could stop Halloween. Christians built bonfires to honor the saints on All Hallows Eve. But some Christians were also recognizing and trying to placate evil spirits with their bonfires.

Early Puritans in the New World banned Halloween along with Christmas and Easter. But their descendants were happy to celebrate again, encouraged by Irish immigrants who popularized Halloween in the last half of the 19th century.

Today, we all recognize the element of truth in the ancients' belief that danger can be found in the cold and darkness. So many of us no longer send children trick-or-treating to the houses of strangers. And churches urge believers to reflect on the nature of goodness and good fellowship on Halloween even if you're dressed like something unholy.

HALLOWEEN: CREEPY CELEBRATION GAINS FOLLOWERS

In Singapore, a nightclub puts on The Abominable Giant Man Eating Zombie Tea Party. And stores carry all kinds of scary costumes.

In Sri Lanka, a radio station holds a contest for the weirdest costume and the most bloodcurdling death scream.

Some say it's another example of American commercialism spreading around the world. Whether it's that or just another excuse for a party, Halloween is catching on around the globe.

Five years ago, when Halloween began making inroads into France, many people objected. Now, Paris is full of witch's outfits, and shops are decorating their windows with spider webs and skeletons.

Halloween mania is seen everywhere from Hungary to Hong Kong. Germany's Frankenstein Castle, near Darmstadt, stages a wild Halloween show each year, complete with monsters.

It's hard to fight Halloween. Might as well put on a costume and join the fun.
