SCHOOL BUS SAFETY

INDIANAPOLIS — As students head back to the classroom, state and local law enforcement agencies are reminding motorists to stop for school buses or face the consequences. Over the next couple of months, officers will be increasing patrols to prevent stop-arm violations, speeding and other forms of reckless driving around school buses and in school zones.

More than 200 agencies plan to participate in the back-to-school Stop Arm Violation Enforcement campaign — better known as SAVE. The overtime patrols are funded by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration through grants administered by the Indiana Criminal Justice Institute (ICJI).

"Drivers who illegally pass a stopped school bus or speed in a school zone need to be held accountable," said Gov. Eric J. Holcomb. "We owe it to our kids to make sure they get home safely. Every driver needs to do their part by paying attention, slowing down and protecting school children and buses."

Despite thousands of motorists being cited under the SAVE program, unsafe driving around school buses continues to be a concern, according to state officials.

In April, thousands of bus drivers who participated in a one-day observational survey counted 2,041 stop-arm violations in Indiana. That one-day total, when multiplied by the number of school days, adds up to a potential 367,380 violations throughout the school year.

"The fact that we still have people willing to put students and bus drivers at risk is the reason this campaign is necessary," said Devon McDonald, ICJI Executive Director. "Still, law enforcement can't be everywhere, so drivers need to do the right thing and exercise caution around buses. Students' lives depend on it."

The newly released data comes from the National School Bus Illegal Passing Driver Survey, which is managed by the Indiana Department of Education in the state. The survey has been conducted annually since 2011 but was put on hold for the past two years due to the pandemic.

This year, collection took place on April 26, with 6,665 bus drivers participating from 195 school districts.

"In order for Indiana's students to learn, they must be able to travel safely to and from school," said Dr. Katie Jenner, Indiana Secretary of Education. "That task is faithfully led by school transportation professionals across the state, but they can't lead this important work alone. Anytime you see a school bus, please slow down, pause for all stop arms and be mindful that there may be young children near the road. They are our state's most precious cargo."

To prevent unsafe driving, officers will use a range of enforcement strategies from high-visibility patrols to police spotters on buses. For each jurisdiction, officers will coordinate with local bus drivers and school transportation officials, with efforts concentrating in the morning and afternoon hours. Agencies will also be working to raise awareness about the importance of school bus safety and following the law.

Drivers should slow down and prepare to stop when the overhead lights on a school bus are flashing yellow. Once the lights turn red and the stop arm extends, drivers are required to stop on all roads with one exception. On highways divided by a physical barrier, such as a concrete wall or grassy median, only vehicles traveling in the same direction as the school bus are required to stop.

Motorists should also be mindful of posted speed limits, avoid distractions and watch for children in or near school and residential areas. Planning ahead and allowing for extra time during each commute will help keep all road users safe.

Disregarding a school bus stop arm is a Class A Infraction. Violators could pay a fine of up to $10,000, have their license suspended for up to 90 days for the first offense or up to 1 year for the second.

HEALTH FUNDING

Huntington County Healing Partners has announced its 2022 round of grants to local organizations.

A unique health-priority funding alliance uniting the Huntington County Medical Society and Parkview Huntington Hospital (PHH) in a shared vision of improved community health, Healing Partners aims to enhance Huntington County social service programs targeting the most pressing health needs. The alliance was created in 2021 thanks to an endowment gift of more than $1.28 million from the medical society.

In June, the Healing Partners Council — a committee of representatives from the medical society, the hospital and Parkview Huntington Foundation — reviewed qualified grant applications received from 27 organizations and selected 15 to receive funding in the program's second round of annual grants. Funding for the grants consists of interest from the Huntington County Physicians' Legacy Fund endowment created by the medical society gift, and an annual gift from the hospital's Community Health Improvement funds.

"Healing Partners has identified organizations in our community committed to the long-term health and wellness of Huntington County," said Matt Pflieger, DO, medical society vice president and Huntington County health officer. "We applaud the evidence-based approach to addressing the complicated issues of obesity and substance abuse. These are difficult problems with no easy answer. We are lucky to have committed partners in our community working tirelessly for the good of others."

The 15 approved grants total $80,199.24 and tackle health priorities identified in the Huntington County Health Needs Assessment, which is conducted every three years. The most recent assessment, completed in 2019, cited the county's major health concerns as chronic disease treatment and management, access to healthy foods, obesity, mental health, and substance use and abuse.

The 2022 recipients are:

- Aging & In-Home Services of Northeast Indiana:

We just got back from the State Fair and got our results on our projects and I must say we did rather well in representing Huntington county in the culinary arts department. Out of the 19 projects Tara and I shown we brought back 16 ribbons, which I brought in 9 ribbons out of 10 projects, 2- 1st place, 2- 2nd place, 1- 3rd place, 4 honorable mentions. Tara brought in 7 out of 10 projects and she got 1- 1st place, 1- 2nd place, 2- 3rd place, 3- honorable mentions. Not bad for only our 2nd year of showing. Oh and by the way, yes she won on the peanut butter cookie, that was her 2nd place ribbon, I only got a honorable mention. So her version of the peanut butter cookie is better than my version of it. I told her she must have paid the judge good. Lol, but I will say any way you fix that cookie it is so good.

Like I said in the previous column, I have shown in the county fairs 18 years out of past 23 years. I have been in the Huntington fair, Blackford county fair, and the Wells county cookie contest, Markle Wildcat Dazes bake-off, Roanoke cake contest, Swiss Days bake off just to name a few. It's a lot of hard work and sometimes a lot of heartache but I enjoy doing it.

I will share with you my blue ribbon brownies recipe, they are very rich but oh so good.

COPPER HARBOR TRIP

DAY #5, PART 2

by Larry Ryan

After a leisurely lunch at The Family Restaurant in Eagle River, my wife and I had time for browsing in various shops on Main Street. Without my wife's knowledge, I bought four milk chocolate peanut clusters at the Fudge Store. Two of these items were enjoyed in the afternoon while the leftovers became soft the next day and created "sticky fingers." Life is tough! Left Eagle River at 1:05 pm.

The bus followed the river, also named, Eagle River west out of town on Highway # 70 for a short distance until Highway # 17 caught our attention and we became southbound. After a 25 minute ride we stopped in Rhinelander, WI. The first building in view was the Hodag (Hoe-Dayg) Store which displayed replicas of this mysterious, green monster. Early lumberjacks reported seeing this fierce, reclusive, woodland creature with razor-sharp teeth. No, we did not go exploring or purchase a green souvenir.

Our tour directors had the driver stop a safe distance away from the Hodag Store at the Pioneer Park Historical Museum in Rhinelander. We toured Red's Sawmill, a Rural Schoolhouse, the Civilian Conservation Corps Museum, the Rhinelander Fire Equipment Museum, Duke's Outboard Motor and Boat Museum, and the Rhinelander Logging Museum. These were all very small, separate buildings. The final stop on this walking tour was the Rhinelander Railroad Museum which featured a restored Soo Line Depot. In the basement of the depot was an elaborate, uprooted trees sped past us model railroad exhibit. A fellow passenger and I WI and joined I-39. After combined our quarters and activated the two trains for their eight minute excursion on the track layout. Several children appeared and enjoyed the display too!

At 2:55 we continued our southerly movement towards Wausau, WI. We passed Ponse Heavy Equipment Dealer, Quash Lake, and Woodboro, WI on Highway # 8. Ferns lined the roadside in this area of marshy land and lakes. Suddenly our tour directors had a big surprise for the passengers. Near Konomis Lake, the bus turned on road, "L" and stopped at the Windmill Ice Cream Shoppe at 3:20. Was this to make amends for the time the bus load of hungry ice cream aficionados were disappointed that Culvers in Houghton was closed? We lined up for this anticipated treat. The complimentary $ 2 servings were huge! While trying to keep ahead of the melting ice cream, we watched, from an adjacent bridge, boats move in and out of a channel to Konomis Lake. The ice cream did not go to waste.

At 4 pm our driver quickly discovered US Highway # 51, turned south, and passed Mohawkin Lake and the village of Tomahawk. The Oaks Pub and several uprooted trees sped past us before we reached Merrill, WI and joined I-39. After crossing the Wisconsin River and entering Marathon County, a large field of what appeared to be some sort of berry bushes was sighted on the right side of the road. The unusual visual aspect of this was that the whole area was covered with a nylon type screen! Was some land owner protecting his crop from pilfering birds? I will never know. Next, we drove past the Sylvan Ski Hill which was inactive for good reason.

Our group of ice cream-stuffed passengers arrived in Wausau, WI at 4:50 pm and checked in at the Jefferson Street Inn. It took a while to finally identify the main entrance. After several left turns by the bus driver on the city streets, the mystery was accomplished. The "City Grill" was the dinner destination. Everybody pretended to be hungry!

More traveling tomorrow.

WHAT TO KNOW WHEN FILING A HOMEOWNERS CLAIM

Homeowners insurance includes a type of property insurance that pays for losses and damages to your home if it is damaged or destroyed by fire, weather, theft, or another covered disaster. When those events happen, you will need to file a claim. The Indiana Department of Insurance (IDOI) provides tips and resources to assist you through the process.

WHAT TO CONSIDER BEFORE FILING A CLAIM

Know when to file a claim. Before reporting the property damage to your home, find out what your deductible is. If the damage is minor, you might decide you are better off paying for the repairs out of pocket. If you believe the damage will cost more than your deductible to repair, or there is a lot of damage, you may want to file a claim.

If you decide to file a claim, it is important to notify your insurance company right away. The amount of time you have to report your claim varies by state.

Here are the steps you will need to take:

Make a list of all your damaged property. You will need this when you meet with your adjuster.

Take photos and videos of damage.

Contact your insurance company or agent with your policy number, name, address, and phone number.

You will need to explain what happened and describe the extent of the property damage.

WHAT IF YOUR HOME HAS FLOOD DAMAGE

Flood damage is generally not covered by a standard homeowners or renter's insurance policy. If you have a separate flood insurance policy, remember to include a copy of the policy and the contact details for the insurer on your list. Flood is a covered event in most auto insurance policies.

Flood insurance is a separate coverage you can purchase through an agent or insurer participating in the National Flood Insurance Program (NFIP). It is a program administered by the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA), which works closely with more than 80 private insurance companies to offer affordable flood insurance to homeowners, renters and business owners. In order to qualify for flood insurance, the home or business must be in a community that has joined the NFIP. If your community does not participate in the NFIP, contact your licensed insurance agent to ask about private flood insurance.

It is important to note that the NFIP insurance policy does not go into effect immediately after you purchase it. There is typically a 30-day waiting period unless a policy is bought at the same time as a newly purchased home.

KNOW THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN ACTUAL CASH VALUE AND REPLACEMENT COST

Actual Cash Value is the cost to replace your damaged, stolen or destroyed personal property with new property of like kind and quality, minus depreciation. It is important to account for depreciation when considering Actual Cash Value coverage. Keep in mind that the cost of the insured property will be valued at a lower amount based on wear and tear and the age of the property. You will, however, be reimbursed for the actual cash value of your property at the time of the claim, minus your deductible.

Replacement Cost is the amount it would take to replace or rebuild your home or repair damages with materials of similar kind and quality, without deducting for depreciation. In other words, it is what you would pay to replace your property at today's cost. Many insurance companies require homes to be insured for at least 80 percent of their replacement value. With 80 percent coverage, the insurance company will pay losses in full, less any deductible, up to the face amount of your policy.

THINGS YOU SHOULD DO TO PREPARE

Take an inventory. Go through every room in your home; write down and take pictures or videos of everything in the room.

Inventory everything, including valuable items such as antiques, electronics, jewelry, collectibles, and guns.

Do this before a disaster strikes. The NAIC's free Home Inventory App will help you with the process. You can download it from the App Store and Google Play. It allows you to take pictures and document your items by room and category.

If you do not use an app for your inventory, store your inventory in a secure place at another location, such as your workplace, a safe deposit box, a relative's house, or online.

Review and update your inventory annually, including your pictures/videos. Update your inventory when you buy new items.

Keep receipts with your inventory for all repairs and new items you buy for proof if you have to file a claim.

Work from memory if your property was destroyed and you have no records.

Review photos (e.g., on your cell phone or from family or friends) taken inside your home. That may help you make the list.

Search online retailers to help estimate costs.

Consider getting appraisals for high-value items, such as jewelry, antiques, electronics, collectibles, and guns, and scheduling them under the policy. Most homeowner's policies only have fixed limits and fixed causes of loss for these items. The limits are minimal to the value of some of these items. If you want to have valuable items properly covered, they need to be specifically scheduled on the policy and backed up by a current and valid appraisal.

Collect the 24-hour contact information for your insurance agent and insurer and enter it as a contact on your smartphone. Make a list that includes your policy numbers, insurer and insurance agent's phone numbers, website addresses and mailing addresses. Also, check to see if the company or agent has an emergency information hotline.

Know how to work with contractors. A contractor is someone you hire to manage the repair of your home. The contractor is responsible for supplying the necessary equipment, material, labor, and services to complete repairs. Don't feel rushed or pushed to agree with something you aren't comfortable with when it comes to repairs. It might help to have your contractor meet with you and the insurance adjuster.

HOW THE IDOI CAN HELP YOU WITH A COMPLAINT ABOUT A CLAIM

If the insurance company has not followed the terms and conditions of your policy, you may submit a consumer complaint form with the IDOI Consumer Services Division.

The IDOI can obtain information or explanations on your behalf from the insurance company or their representatives and review the information for compliance with statutes, regulations, and policy contracts. The IDOI may take corrective action against a company if actions are in violation of a statute, regulation, or policy the IDOI enforces.

Visit in.gov/idoi/consumer-services to learn more about the complaint process.
