GRANT DEADLINE

The Huntington County Community Foundation, celebrating its 20th Anniversary, announces that the deadline for area non-profits to apply for Make A Difference community grants is Friday, 15 April 2011. A second grant cycle will occur in October 2011. Over $800,000 has been awarded since 1997.

Through these Make A Difference grants, HCCF funds charitable projects and programs that create a positive impact on Huntington County and its residents in the areas of arts and culture, health, civic affairs, recreation, community development, welfare, and education. Applications and guidelines are available online at www.hccfoundation.org, by calling 356-8878 or by stopping by the HCCF office at 356 W. Park Dr. in Huntington.

GARDENING RESOURCES

Home gardeners can find advice on planting vegetables, growing healthy plants, protecting gardens against pests and more from Purdue Extension. Folks can contact the Huntington County Extension office directly, visit with Master Gardener volunteers or find university extension publications by searching the internet.

In Huntington County both Purdue Extension staff and volunteers are providing gardening education to the public. Master Gardener volunteers from Huntington County are hosting workshops on gardening topics. A rain garden and rain barrel workshop was held recently at Hier's Park. Another workshop will be held Thursday May 5 at the Huntington City-Township Library at 6:30 p.m. The topic will be medicinal herbs and the presenter is Dr. Kathleen Hull.

Huntington County Master Gardeners will also have their annual Spring Plant Sale on Saturday May 14 at Hier's Park from 8 a.m. to 10 a.m. Gardeners are encouraged to come early and ask questions about plants that available for sale. Master Gardeners will provide suggestions about how to properly care for plants as well as how a particular plant can be grown in a home landscape.

Demonstration gardens are planted and tended by Master Gardeners at the Forks of the Wabash and the Salamonie Reservoir Interpretive Center each year. Spending time in these gardens is worthwhile for individuals who have the "gardening bug." The experiences help people better understand and appreciate a wide variety of plants.

Many resources pertaining to gardening can be found online. A Web site called "VegetableTips:Resources for Easy Gardening" is organized chronologically and walks visitors through the steps in growing vegetables. The site includes sections on "Getting Started," "Planning," "Planting" and "Growing." New gardeners can find information on tools to use, crops to grow and budgets for a vegetable garden.

Rosie Lerner, Purdue Extension Horticulture Specialist, said the site combines resources from several College of Agriculture departments, including Horticulture and Landscape Architecture, Entomology, Agronomy, and Botany and Plant Pathology, as well as Purdue's Plant and Pest Diagnostic Laboratory. THANK YOU

We the family of Vera Campbell would like to say Thank You to everyone who helped her on February 25, 2011.

In the back yard of her home she suffered a mild stroke while shoveling snow.

To the first responders, Huntington Paramedics, ER Staff, Patty & Max Boxell (her neighbors) and to a stranger who stopped when no one else would.

Cards, letters, flowers, plants and phone calls were appreciated.

Thank you all and may God Bless you! She is home and doing well.

Sincerely,
Vera Campbell & Family

THE UPTOWN GARDENER by Ruth Herring

I have beautiful daffodils blooming and crocus and sure makes you feel as if spring is here even though I need to on some days don my winter coat. The storm and rain we got Monday morning really made the grass green up.

We had a wonderful old gentleman living near us at home who always looked forward to the first electrical storm of the season, that was green-up time and spring was on the way. He was such a kind man and had no family to care for him and my Mom always made sure he had a few hot meals each week and also a nice Sunday dinner. It was my job to deliver them. On cold winter day the food wasn't always that hot when it arrived. He was you might say a replacement for my grandpa as I really never had one. One died when I was 3 and the other 6 years old so I always felt I missed out on a lot but he was a good substitute. This fellow lived in a house with no electricity or then any modern conveniences. There was a wood cook stove to heat the house and he barely had money to buy coal or food. I can remember my dad cutting wood and taking it to him to help out thru the winter.

In return for our concern he decided to teach me to play his banjo (with one string missing). It was amazing what he could play on that thing. He chose to start my lessons in the summer when it was warm and we could sit on the porch. Sadly my friend died after my second lesson and that ended my music career. Today I still think of him at "green-up time".

Sunday we had supper at Treva's and she had a great meal as usual. Ham loaf was very good and with Easter coming up this month a ham loaf recipe might be good food for thought.

This is how I have made it.

CHAUTAUQUA

April 1, 2011 meeting at Heritage Pointe.

The President, Sharon Gebhart opened the meeting with a silent prayer in memory of Bertha Turner and Maro Wall who passed away this past month. They will be surely missed. Twenty-two members answered the Roll Call with "A Spring Pastime" on Friday, April 1, 2011 at Heritage Pointe. President Sharon Gebhart read excerpts from "Wit and Wisdom of Women", one being "Alphabet for Happy Living", after all repeated the Club Collect.

Donations of $15 each to Knight-Bergman Center in memory of Bertha Turner, and to Solid Rock in memory of Maro Wall, were reflected in the Treasurer's report. A new member, Kitty Throop, was accepted into the Chautauqua Club.

Karen Hunnicutt presented plans for the June luncheon. Final plans and reservations will take place at the May meeting.

Ann Miles then presented a very interesting and enlightening program with many pictures and memorabilia from the 2009 launch of Discovery Mission STS 128 at the Kennedy Space Center, Fla. This was Discovery's 37th flight, and was an ISS flight piloted by Col. Kevin Ford, of Hartford City, IN, a nephew of John and Ann Miles McCammon. Everyone in the family was invited to the launch, and about 50 family members attended. When they arrived, Kevin was already in the shuttle getting prepared to launch. Lightning storms cancelled the launch 2 times, but it eventually soared on March 28, 2009. The family watched from 3 ½ miles away, and not a sound was heard at lift-off. Cheering erupted when the shuttle made it through the sound barrier safely. Many exciting events also entertained the family during the waiting time. Col. Ford plans to be a part of Expedition 33/34 in September 2012, lifting off from Russia, and will be on the International Space Station for 5 ½ months, returning also to Russia by parachute. This was a fascinating time in history for Kevin and his family.

Those attending were Janet Beavens, Lucille Beavens, Sue Blair, Nancy Bonham, Ann Brauchla, Freddie Couch, Barb Engle, Sharon Gebhart, Linda Howell, Phyllis Hubart, Karen Hunnicutt, Georgina Laymon, Ann Miles, Colleen Oden, LuEllyn Pond, Jane Ruble, Martha Shafer, Carolyn Sparks, Freda Van Winkle, Alice Whitmore, Mary Brown, and Ruth Alice Christner.

Hostesses Carolyn Sparks and Linda Howell served delicious refreshments.

The next meeting will be May 6, 2011, at Heritage Pointe.

DONATE BLOOD

Individuals and organizations can seize the moment and share in honoring America's volunteers this spring.

National Volunteer Week runs April 10 through 16 and celebrates the millions of people who dedicate themselves to taking action that helps better their communities. The week also provides opportunities to inspire, recognize and encourage people to seek out and engage in activities that can effect positive social change.

"Everywhere you look, you'll find a story about ordinary people accomplishing extraordinary things through volunteer service, including blood donation," said Sharyn Whitman, CEO for the Indiana-Ohio Blood Services Region of the American Red Cross. "And that's cause for celebration."

National Volunteer Week was established by President Richard Nixon in 1974, and continues to grow in scope through the support of all subsequent U.S. presidents and other elected officials.

At the American Red Cross, volunteers constitute 96 percent of the total workforce needed to carry out the organization's humanitarian mission. Around 155,000 volunteers assist Red Cross staff in collecting 40 percent of the nation's blood supply from about 4 million volunteer blood donors. In addition, more than a half million people a year deliver Red Cross services in areas such as disaster relief, health and safety training, and support to military members and their families.

"Volunteers show all of us that you can make a difference in today's world," said Whitman. "We invite you to join the millions of people who help save the day by donating blood or giving of your time and talents through the American Red Cross."

Upcoming Blood Drives:

Saturday, April 9, from 7 a.m. until noon at Dillman Church in the Fellowship Hall, located at 8888 South 1100 West 90 in Warren. Please call (260) 375-3569 to schedule your blood donation appointment.

Wednesday, April 13, from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m. at Walmart, located at 2800 Walmart Drive in Huntington. Come to donate and receive a t-shirt.

How to Donate Blood - To schedule an appointment to donate please call 1-800-RED CROSS (1-800-733-2767) or visit redcrossblood.org for more information. Individuals who are 17 years of age (16 with parental permission in some states), meet weight and height requirements (110 pounds or more, depending on their height) and are in generally good health may be eligible to donate blood. Please bring your Red Cross blood donor card or other form of positive ID when you come to donate.

DNR OPPORTUNITIES

National Volunteer Week, April 10-16, is a great time to catch the giving-back fever. Chances are there is a fun way to donate your interests, time and talents to benefit our natural resources.

The DNR Division of State Parks & Reservoirs provides numerous types of opportunities. These include greeting interpretive center visitors, serving as a campground host, demonstrating a craft or skill, assisting with special events, maintaining trails, and monitoring bluebird boxes. Helping control invasive plants such as garlic mustard is another possibility.

If you don't like working outdoors but still want to help natural resources, many DNR properties need assistance entering computer data, which helps free up those whose specialties call them outdoors.

If you have some free time and a willingness to work, chances are the DNR can use your skills and services.

"Volunteering can help you get to know other property

ARRESTS MADE

The Huntington County Sheriffs Department today announced that officers made 4 alcohol-related arrests during the Drunk Driving. Over the Limit. Under Arrest. March crackdown.

In all, agency officers dedicated 41 hours of overtime towards Indiana's annual mobilization against impaired and dangerous driving. In addition to the alcohol related arrests, citations were issued for various traffic violations, including speeding, left of center, driving while suspended, etc.

"The goal of this campaign is prevention, not arrest," said Sheriff Terry Stoffel. "Our enforcement efforts may have increased over the last 17 days, but drivers should remember - our commitment to keeping roadways safe from impaired

According to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA), there were 103 crash fatalities on St. Patrick's Day in 2009. Of those crashes, 37 percent involved an impaired driver and/or motorcyclist with a (BAC) of .08 and higher.

Operation Pull Over Blitz 66 was supported by federal funding allocated to the Huntington County Sheriffs Department from the Traffic Safety division of the Indiana Criminal Justice Institute (ICJI). More than 250 Indiana law enforcement agencies participated in this annual, statewide enforcement effort, which generally occurs around the St. Patrick's Day holiday.

To learn more about Drunk Driving. Over the Limit. Under Arrest enforcement efforts, visit www.StopImpairedDriving.org.

HOOSIER HOMESTEAD

Hoosier Homestead Gathering will be held at Salamonie Lake on April 30 and May 1.

CASA WORKERS NEEDED

A serious problem is rising for vulnerable Hoosier children, but so is the opportunity to help.

The child abuse and neglect rate in Indiana increased 24 percent in one year to 15.6 confirmed cases per 1,000 children under the age of 18. In most cases, parents are the perpetrators, meaning most victimized children cannot rely on their primary caregivers as the case goes to court.

Indiana law requires adult representation of all abused and neglected children in court and the child welfare system. Professional attorneys can provide this assistance, as can volunteer Court Appointed Special Advocates (CASA).

CASA volunteers gather information about the child and the case, draft written recommendations in the best interest of the child, and then advocate for the child in court hearings and child welfare meetings.

The CASA keeps the child informed of decisions, monitors the implementation of court orders and case plans, and informs the court of any new information regarding the child.

According to the National CASA Association, about 80 percent of CASA recommendations are approved. Cases involving a CASA more frequently reach permanent resolutions, result in more services for children and parents, and end with children spending less time in long-term foster care.

In 2009, Indiana CASAs provided more than 500,000 volunteer hours to nearly 17,000 children. However, last year a waiting list included 4,544 children in need of a CASA volunteer.

Think about that: abused and neglected...and on a waiting list.

CASAs must meet certain requirements, but special expertise or academic credentials are not necessary.

"Having the heart to care, having the heart to set aside yourself for someone else's benefits, that is what it takes," said Ebony Chew, who received CASA help as a teen mom in Evansville and will earn her nursing degree in May. "Everything else can be taught."

Including safety. Indiana Supreme Court employee Leslie Rogers Dunn oversees the state's CASA program and says CASAs train on safety in the midst of difficult family situations. "In the worst case scenarios the CASA never meets with the parents face-to-face," Rogers explained.

Frank West, a CASA volunteer in Grant County, said his initial nervousness during his first case quickly subsided as he addressed the child's needs. "If it hurts your heart when you hear about a kid being abused, you could be a CASA," West said. "If you've got four or six hours a month to spare, you could be a CASA. And if you want to see that your community, your town, could be a better place, you could be a CASA."

Indiana has certified CASA programs in 70 of the state's 92 counties. Find a link listing your local CASA program: www.childadvocatesnetwork.org. The problem is increasing, but so is the opportunity to help.

JR LEADERS TO MEET the cattle barns, south side of Hier's Park. Forms were mailed to youth enrolled in the project for the 2011 4-H program year but if youth have not yet received the information, please contact the County Extension Office immediately.

For more information about this 4-H identification project requirement, contact the Purdue Extension - Huntington County Office.

OF COURSE YOU CAN BE MORE COURAGEOUS

By V. Neil Wyrick
During his years as premier of the Soviet Union, Nikita Khrushchev denounced many of the policies and atrocities of the late Joseph Stalin.

Once, as he censured Stalin in a public meeting, Khrushchev was interrupted by a shout from a heckler in the audience. "You were one of Stalin's colleagues. Why didn't you stop him?"

"Who said that?" roared Khrushchev.

An agonizing silence followed as nobody in the room dared move a muscle.

Then Khrushchev replied quietly, "Now you know why."

Fear is paralysis dressed in many different garments while all the time courage is the garment we want to wear.

Therefore, a question!
Will you live a half lived life?
Will you chase challenges at high noon or let fear drive you into the shadows?

Will you drive with your foot constantly on the brake and your vision aimed at no horizon higher than the rut in the road?

Will you put wings on your dreams and give them free reign to fly?

Will you place yourself at risk so you can be proud to have shown courage when at the moment you did not have as much as you just showed?

Will you at least sometimes seek to grow on the side of a rocky mountain slope so that even if you fail you will have had the exhilaration of knowing you tried?

We all have different areas where courage lifts us or leaves us.

And there is no reason to list them, for they are as varied as each star hanging in the sky and as much alike as well.

And how to handle fear rather than letting it handle us is pretty much the same no matter what the fear is.

So, let's begin. First thing to do. Start a Fear journal. Write down all the things you are afraid of and the last time that particular fear challenged you and what was your response and how much did it defeat you and how much did you defeat it.

And why? And what should you have done? And what will you do next time? Start making a road map and put together an emotional, practical pragmatic, spiritual construction company to begin actually working on improving your fear factor.

We learn from doing rather than undoing.

There is such a freedom from not always being afraid or at least lessening the number of items of which we are afraid.

Courage is a virtue. Think on this. By way of example; without the virtue of courage we cannot exhibit of the courage of tolerance.

And be patient I tell myself. I did not pick up bad emotional habits in a moment. I will not be rid of them in a moment.

Do the best you can. That is the beginning of winning the war again fear. Two steps forward and one step backwards. And if our progress is slow or next to nothing, we have the satisfaction of knowing we are fighting against it all the way.

We all have our fears. We just owe it to ourselves to work at not letting them have us.

RAISING ECO-FRIENDLY KIDS:

FIVE TIPS TO GET THEM INVOLVED

(ARA) – With so much complex language surrounding the green movement, it might seem like too much for young kids to handle.

However, children's favorites, like the curriculum-based "Sid the Science Kid" series from The Jim Henson Company, make the concept of going green easier, thanks to a relatable cast, humor and music that are used as teaching tools.

Sid the Science Kid offers these tips that young audiences can embrace:

*Don't waste water. You can save water by turning off the faucet while brushing your teeth, telling an adult if the faucet is leaking and not filling the bath tub to the very top.

*Reduce air pollution. Engines create dirty air also known as air pollution. You can reduce air pollution by riding bikes and walking instead of using a car.

*Plant a tree. Trees are beautiful and they are useful in so many ways. You can do your part to help by planting a tree, and watering trees and plants to help them grow.

*Recycle Objects made of glass, paper and plastic should be recycled because they can be made into something new.

Getting kids in a green state of mind will lead to lifelong earth-friendliness, so it's never too early to encourage awareness.
