Thought for the Week: The highest reward for man's toil is not what he gets for it but what he becomes by it.

Free Library Cards

Students attending Huntington County Community Schools who live outside of Salamonie Township may apply for a Student Library Card at the Warren Library.

As per Indiana Law (IC 36-12-2-25C), people living outside a library's taxing district must pay a non-resident fee comparable to a taxpayer's yearly assessment to check out library material. The Warren Public Library's taxing district is Salamonie Township.

However IC 36-12-2-25(d) addresses the issue of free or reduced cards for students enrolled in a public school corporation that is located at least in part in the library's district. Based on this citation, the Warren Public Library Board has passed a resolution allowing students to have a Student Card at no cost. This card Will allow checkout of books only and these books need to be age appropriate (no adult fiction, nor movies).

To apply for a library card, students should be accompanied by a parent and bring some form of school identification (such as school id or yearbook with picture, report card). Cards will be updated yearly.

The Library is located at 123 E. Third Street, Warren. Hours are 1:00 - 6:00 Monday through Thursday, 10:00 - 6:00 Friday and 10:00 - 2:00 on Saturday. If you have questions, stop by or call 375-3450.

KUDOS, KICKS & KARATS

THIS GOVERNMENT CALLED "A DEMOCRACY"

Since the late 1780s, much has been said and more has been written about this form of government called a "democracy" or democratic republic". Lately though since we have grown to be such a world colossus, it seems that we are really oblivious to our circumstance or we really don't care. And of course, for us to show concern for the future of our fantastic country and it's government, it would be good if we were to know how republics have existed before the USA.

The organized government we have for our celebrated 50 states is not the first experiment of governance of this kind. There have been many. And many were very successful for the time in which they were in world leadership. The people were successful, prosperous and introduced many benevolent measures of government that we have borrowed during our last 200 years. We have the best government, even with all its foibles, that man has ever known. But,,,

Where do we go from here? How long will our experiment last? Is it vulnerable? Lets take a look at what has been said, some of it over 2000 years ago.

A university professor in Edinburgh, Alexander Tyler, had these kinds of things to say.

"A democracy is always temporary in nature; it simply cannot exist as a permanent form of government."

"A democracy will continue to exist up until the time that voters discover they can vote themselves generous gifts from the public treasury."

"From that time on, the majority always vote for the candidates who promise the most benefits from the public treasury, with the result that every democracy will finally collapse due to loose fiscal policy, which is always followed by a dictatorship".

Ole Alex goes on to tell us that there are steps that develop during the growth of most democracies. And, we might see what he says we have in store for us in the future.

Here is the sequence: from the start to the end?

1. from bondage to spiritual faith;
2. from spiritual faith to great courage;
3. from courage to liberty;
4. from liberty to abundance;
5. from abundance to complacency;
6. from complacency to apathy;
7. from apathy to dependence;
8. from dependence back into bondage

Joseph Olson of Hemline University School of Law, St. Paul, Minnesota, offers the following interesting facts:

In the 2000 election comes the following:

Number of states won by: Gore: 19 Bush: 29

Square miles of land won by: Gore: 580,000 Bush: 2,427,000

Population of counties won by: Gore: 127 million Bush: 143 million

Murder rate per 100,000 residents in counties won by: Gore: 13.2 Bush: 2.1

And here is his thesis statement:

Olsen adds: "In aggregate, the map of the territory Bush won was mostly the land owned by the taxpaying citizens of this great country. Gore's territory mostly encompassed those citizens living in government-owned tenements and living off various forms of government welfare." Olsen believes the United States is now somewhere between Complacency and apathy.

Both political parties have much explaining to do to justify some of the programs enacted and approved by both. Slowly, since the 1930s, in the name of benevolent and well meaning action, our government has caused a great part of this nation to be "dependent". And, they are going to now bring in maybe up to 20,000,000 more individuals who are automatically going to be dependent. Amnesty and citizenship given to the individuals will only hasten the day for "following" the path to destruction for our once strong vigorous country.

These actions are largesse at its very best! It will be interesting to watch

Cindy (Schweikhardt) Brooks is being honored for her significant contributions to the Huntington University women's basketball and volleyball programs during the years of 1990-1994.

As a freshman and sophomore on the basketball court, Brooks helped lead the Foresters to back-to-back NCCAA national titles. During her junior season, she led the team with her 19 points and 6.7 rebounds per game and her 56.4 field goal percentage for the season set a school record that still stands today. As a senior, Brooks again led the team in scoring and rebounding and her performance was instrumental in helping the team earn the program's first berth in the NAIA National Tournament. She concluded her career with 1542 points and currently stands fifth on Huntington's all-time scorers' list. For her career, she was a three-time MCC All-Conference pick, a NCCAA First Team and NAIA Second Team All-American as a junior and an NAIA Honorable Mention All-American as a senior.

Brooks also was an impact player as a four-year starter for the Forester volleyball program. During her career, she helped lead the program to four straight MCC conference titles and 122 wins against just 40 losses. She was a three-time MCC All-Conference and NAIA All-District First Team selection, including being named the NAIA District 21 Player of the Year as a senior. She also was a NAIA Second Team All-American in her final season.

Shannon Egbert is being honored for her significant contributions to the Huntington University women's track and volleyball programs during the years of 1990-1994.

As a member of Huntington's track program, Egbert was a four-time NCCAA National Champion, twice in the high jump and once in the 100 hurdles and 4x100 relay. Her performances help lead the Foresters to three of four consecutive NCCAA National Championships. Egbert qualified to compete in the NAIA National Outdoor Track and Field Championships in each of her final three years. As a junior, she was a member of the 4x100 relay team that finished sixth and earned NAIA First Team All-America honors. She graduated holding five school records in the 100 hurdles, high jump, heptathlon, long jump and 4x100 relay, four of which still stand today.

Egbert also was a four-year letter-winner for the Forester volleyball program. As a junior and senior, she earned MCC All-Conference and NAIA All-District honors. During her career, Huntington won 122 matches against 40 losses and claimed four consecutive MCC Conference titles. In her final season, she also helped lead the Foresters to NAIA District 21 and Bi-District 10 championships to earn the team a berth in the NAIA National Tournament in San Diego, California.

Dan Kline is being honored for his significant contributions to the Huntington University men's baseball and basketball programs during the years of 1979-1983.

Playing under head baseball coach Jim Wilson his freshman year, Kline was second on the team in stolen bases, hit .341 at the plate and tied for the team lead in homeruns. Kline helped lead the Foresters to back-to-back conference titles his sophomore and junior seasons and was a four year letter-winner in the baseball program.

Kline also was a four-year letter-winner in Huntington's basketball program. As a sophomore, he averaged 12.8 points and 4 assists per game and earned MCC All-Conference honors. During his junior year, Kline again averaged in double digits with his 12 points per game and also added 3.4 assists each contest. In his final season, he increased his production to establish new career highs with his 13.9 points and 4.3 assists per game. His efforts garnered him Honorable Mention All-Conference and Honorable Mention All-District honors. Kline concluded his career with a total of 1011 points, which currently places him 34th on the Foresters' list of all-time scorers. His career total also makes him a part of the only father-son combination to score over 1000 points in their careers for the Foresters. His father Duane finished his career with 1018.

Charles Duane Kline is being honored for his significant contributions to the Huntington University men's baseball and basketball programs during the years of 1956-1960.

Kline entered Huntington College in the fall of 1956 and as a freshman guard playing in his first collegiate game, he scored 20 points for the Foresters and went on to average 15 points per game for the year. As a junior, he set a career high with 28 points against Grace, going a perfect 14 for 14 from the floor. In his final two seasons, he served as captain for Coach Dick Klopfenstein and helped lead the Foresters to a MCC title both years. He finished his career with a total of 1018 points, which currently places him just above his son, Dan, in 33rd place on the Foresters' list of all-time scorers. They are the only father-son combination to score more than 1000 points in their careers for the Foresters.

Kline was equally adept on the baseball field. He played center field for the Foresters and held the leadoff spot in the batting order.

During his sophomore year, Kline provided some of the manpower used to build the Forest Glen field, and fittingly, he hit the first homerun in the new ballpark he helped build. As a junior and senior, he captained both Forester squads while helping Huntington earn back-to-back MCC championships. Kline hit nearly .400 at the plate for his career. He led the team in homeruns one year and in stolen bases each of his four years. His accomplishments on the field earned him MCC All-Conference honors in both of his final two seasons.

The Huntington University Foresters compete in 14 intercollegiate sports for men and women. In the past ten years, Huntington has produced 61 NAIA All-America honors and 137 All-America Scholar Athlete honors. Huntington University is a comprehensive Christian college of the liberal arts offering graduate and undergraduate programs in more than 70 academic concentrations. U.S.News & World Report ranks Huntington among the top comprehensive colleges in the Midwest.

ALZHEIMER'S AWARENESS

In 1983, when President Ronald Regan designated November as National Alzheimer's Disease Month, fewer than 2 million Americans had the disease. There are currently more than 5 million Americans living with Alzheimer's and almost 10 million people caring for someone with Alzheimer's or another dementia.

Caring for a person with Alzheimer's disease poses special challenges. Although memory loss is the most widely known symptom, as the disease progresses it also causes confusion, loss of orientation, and frequently, changes in personality and behavior. Individuals with Alzheimer's require increasing levels of care, supervision and provision for their safety.

The Alzheimer's Association, provides a number of programs and services that help people affected by Alzheimer's at every stage of the disease including a 24/7 toll-free helpline (800.272.3900), informative web site www.alz.org/indiana, and local services including information and referral, care consultation, support groups, and educational material resources.

10 Warning Signs of Alzheimer's disease ©

Memory loss that disrupts everyday life is not a normal part of aging. This checklist of common symptoms can help individuals recognize signs of Alzheimer's disease.

1 - Memory loss

2 – Difficulty performing familiar tasks

3 – Problems with language

4 – Disorientation to time and place

5 – Poor or decreased judgment

6 – Problems with abstract thinking

7 – Misplacing things

8 – Changes in mood or behavior

9 – Changes in personality

10 – Loss of initiative

If you or someone you know is having many of the 10 warning signs, see a doctor to find the cause. Early diagnosis gives you more opportunity to get treatments and plan for your future. The Alzheimer's Association Greater Indiana Chapter can help individuals as they search for a diagnosis and services available in their area. Contact them at 800.272.3900.

GOVGAB.GOV

Real people. Real experiences. Really fun and helpful.

That's how people are describing the Federal Citizen Information Center's new blog: GovGab.gov. This weblog gives Americans a new way to get information about the services and opportunities of the U.S. government. After reading, the public can comment and share their own experiences.

With its daily postings, Gov Gab is a great way to get tips and information from the Federal government to help you make life a little simpler. It's written by a team of five bloggers whose "day jobs" all involve making it easier for people to find answers to their government-related questions via websites like USA.gov and Pueblo.gsa.gov.

Check out Gov Gab's Meet the Bloggers section for a short autobiography of each writer. Though they have different backgrounds and interests, all enjoy sharing on a more personal level how they use the great government information they discover in their work.

Read along each weekday as the bloggers talk about the business of everyday life: figuring out what to do when an airline loses your luggage; preparing your lawn for fall and winter; learning how to roll over a 401(k); experiencing the thrill (and trauma) of buying a new car; and much more. Gov Gab talks about the same issues you deal with in your busy life.

Find out who's talking, what they're saying, and offer your two cents on GovGab.gov — Your U.S. Government Blog.

CERTIFIED DEEDS

Your friends at the Federal Citizen Information Center (FCIC) want to warn you about solicitation letters that are being sent out nationwide by a private company regarding buying certified copies of deeds. The letters refer to information found in FCIC's "Managing Household Records" 2003 online consumer focus article. The company cites that article as a reason for purchasing a certified deed. FCIC wants to make sure that consumers know it is not necessary to use a private company to obtain a certified copy of the deed to your home. You can obtain one from your local Register of Deeds for free or at a low cost.

A copy of your deed is just one of the important documents that you should keep in an organized records system. Whether they're kept in a shoe box or scanned into your computer, there should be one place where you and your loved ones can quickly locate all your important documents during an emergency. In addition to your deed, you should also include your birth and marriage certificates, wills, advance directives, titles of cars, and passports. It's a good idea to store the original papers in a safe deposit box, and keep copies in a secure place at your home.

Get even more information and read, print, or download hundreds of Federal consumers publications for free at www.pueblo.gsa.gov.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

The Van Buren Public Library held a Birthday Celebration on Friday, November 9th from 2:30 to 3:30pm. The children colored pictures, sang the Happy Birthday Song, and made cards for the Senior Citizens Center. Rose Marie Doyle read them the book "Happy Birthday to You!" by Dr. Seuss. Each child received a snack and a gift bag to take home. Nancy Cook assisted with the festivities. Gifts and snack were provided by Embarque.

Please join us this week on Friday, November 16th from 2:30 to 3:30pm for an After School Fun Story-time. We will be making crafts and reading a book all relating to Thanksgiving. We look forward to seeing you there!

EUCHRE CLUB

The Jackson Township Euchre Club met at the home of Carolyn Carroll. Doris Tyner won high, Joyce Willman was low and Florence Taylor, Sharron Roush and Mary Jo Zoda tied for most lones. Others enjoying the evening were Sharon Gebhart, Joan Huffman, Marjorie Michaud, Marge Jones, Phyllis Dickey and Jane Lieurance. Our December meeting and gift exchange will be held at the home of Sharon Gebhart.

BE AN EXAMPLE

by Jonathan Roche

The old adage about losing weight is "do it for yourself," although noble, this usually is not true - and there is nothing wrong with that. Your weight affects the people around you (your loved ones) in several ways that most do not realize.

There are many reasons why people lose weight: for their wedding, to impress that special someone, getting prepared for the beach, and even trying to attempt the impossible: fitting into those 10-year old pants for their high school reunion. Unfortunately for them, potentially the best reason to lose weight is unknown: to help their child's future. A parent's weight and lifestyle has a large effect on their child's activity level, eating habits, and outlook on weight. So when you get to work tomorrow morning take the stairs instead of the elevator, have popcorn with no butter at the movie theatre, and go play catch with your child so both of you can fit a little exercise into your lives.

It might not be fair, after all most moms and dads around the country already live their lives around their children. Asking you to watch your weight is just one more responsibility that you think you do not have time for. However, the statistics are frightening:

According to The American Academy of Child & Adolescent Psychiatry, a child with one obese parent is 50% likely to become obese. A child with two obese parents is 80% likely to be become obese. These numbers are scary, but sadly, they are true. The sad part is that obesity (being approximately 30 pounds overweight) increases a person's chances of diabetes, high blood pressure, heart disease and some cancers.

There are many positive qualities that you work hard to pass on to your children: treating people correctly, a strong work ethic, studying, doing the right thing, etc., but sadly and unfortunately, most Americans pass on their health and weight problems as well. I am not trying to add more stress into your life, being a parent comes with major responsibility as it is, but making a positive decision about your health will significantly benefit your children.

If the idea of being a grand or GREAT grand parent isn't enough, then get healthy so that your children have a chance to someday tell stories to their grandchildren. So the next time you think about driving to the store down the block, or eating that extra piece of pie, keep your children in mind. Remember, it is okay to get healthy for others as well as yourself: do it for you, do it for your parents, do it for your spouse, and do it for your children. Their health and the role model you are for them should keep you motivated to adapt a healthy lifestyle. It is one of the best things you can do for your family.

You Are Not Behind

by The FlyLady, Marla Cilley

I know that many of you have not started your Holiday Cruising Missions because you think you are already behind. These missions were not made to increase your guilt level. They were built to help you jump in where we are not beat yourself up over stupid little things. After all it is the little things done each day that keep us moving forward. You know what is going to happen in December when the Holiday DEADLINE is upon you! I want you to stop this right this minute and forget about the past missions. I am going to give you a quick over view so you will see that you are not behind! This will give you the confidence to jump in right here and now and get started. So enough with beating yourself up of something that is trivial; do you hear me!

I have set up a basic weekly plan for our HOLIDAY CRUISING MISSIONS.

Monday- Clean up and declutter one little area.

Tuesday- Make your plans and Play; Write down things and decorate!

Wednesday- Anti-Procrastination Day; Do something you have been putting off.

Thursday- Go and Do! Get out of your home and run errands. The stuff you wrote down.

Friday- Budget Look at what you have to spend and how much you have spent!

You see that is all there is to what we are doing.

With our little missions I give you specific things to look at but I can make those into a check list for you so you don't feel like you are behind.

1. Grab a trash bag and Fling!
2. Download Holiday Control Journal or just start a notebook.
3. Gather up cards, wrapping paper, ribbons into one place.
4. Shop for stamps, tape or any wrapping or mailing supplies
5. Make a budget for the holidays: Travel, food, gifts.
6. Clear Hot Spots in the living room for holiday decorations
7. 15 minutes in Holiday CJ (decide on plans) and then play!
8. Write down what Family's sizes in your Holiday Control Journal.
9. Run Errands in your HCJ: Baking Supplies, decorations, dry clearer.
10. Examine your budget and calendar: set up money timetable for buying.
11. Toss out some more clutter while you bless your home.
12. Make travel arrangements or menu plan
13. Place catalog or internet orders or just get in shopping cart.
14. Make errand list by reviewing your Holiday Control Journal and Go.
15. Review budget, pay bill and check your timetable for buying.

After looking at this list do you see how you can jump in right where we are and get started without any guilt that you are behind. It is just the first part of November! We can do this! All we are doing is cleaning, planning, playing, doing things we hate to do, running errands and facing our finances. We do this every day anyway!

Jump in where we are by downloading your FREE Holiday Control Journal and spending some time this afternoon using it to gain control over your Holiday Guilt! As of right now I am releasing you from any guilt because you have not started yet!

FIVE THINGS TO PONDER

by The Dinner Diva, Leanne Ely

Believe it or not, in just a few weeks it will be time to carve another turkey and to give thanks for all our blessings. That's right, Thanksgiving is just around the corner!

If you've finally eaten the last of the Halloween candy (here's a helpful Body Clutter hint - -next year buy stuff you don't like then you won't eat it) then you're ready to start planning for Thanksgiving. If you want a little help, our Thanksgiving Menu-Mailer is just the ticket and available to you at no charge. Our planner contains the menu, recipes, shopping lists, decorating ideas and timeline that has been used by hundreds of people every year. It's there for you at www.savingdinner.com/

And here are a few more things to help you sail through Thanksgiving this year—

1) Guest List. Make your list; check it twice and start making those all-important phone calls. Knowing how many to plan for is an integral part of successful holiday planning.

2) The Menu. Do you know what you're having besides turkey? Make your menu and appropriate grocery list and get everything purchased except the perishables. If you have stuff that might get mistakenly eaten before the big day, put it in a box and stash it in the linen closet or label it instructing your loved ones to stay far, far away from this Thanksgiving food item.

3) The Turkey. If you're going to order a fresh one, do it now and make sure you get a confirmation number (put the confirmation number on your calendar or checklist). If you're buying frozen and have the room, go ahead and purchase it now.

4) Serving Pieces. Do you have everything you need? Platters, serving utensils, extra plates, napkins, etc.? Buy what you need or make phone calls to borrow and pick them up as soon as possible.

5) Linen Check. Pull out your tablecloth and napkins. Are they clean, are they pressed? If not, get them done now then hang them up on hangers and put them in your hall closet (or wherever you can hang them). Doing them the night before or the day of will exhaust you! There's way too much to do on those two days.

Remember that holidays are for everyone, INCLUDING the cook! Don't forget to ask for help, allow others to bring some of their favorite dishes and on cooking day, make time to stop, put your feet up and be very thankful for the faces that will be sitting around your Thanksgiving table. Enjoy yourself this year!

SAVE ON HEATING BILLS

(StatePoint) As the mercury drops, the cost of heating your home will rise.

By making your home more energy efficient, you can keep more green in your pocket and even make the world greener by cutting your home's harmful emissions.

"The cooler months are a great time to evaluate your home's energy use and make a few smart choices that can keep your family warm and save you money," said Kate Caskin, Senior Vice President of the Propane Education & Research Council (PERC). "A few easy steps can ensure your home isn't wasting energy and doing excess damage to the environment."

Here is some useful advice from the experts at PERC that can keep those winter energy bills from giving you the cold shoulder:

* Invest in a time-set thermostat. You can cut annual heating bills by as much as 10 percent per year by turning your thermostat back 10 to 15 percent for eight hours per day when you're not at home.

* Consider switching to a tankless water heater. Since tankless propane water heaters heat water on demand rather than storing hot water in a tank, they can lower household energy bills by up to 60 percent and save the average family 10 to 20 percent of its daily water use. And not only will you cut back on water waste, the use of propane water heaters generates 60 percent fewer earth-damaging carbon emissions than electric-powered heaters.

* Turn down your water heater from the standard 120 degrees to 115 degrees. You could save more than 10 percent on your water heating bill.

* Keep out the cold. Insulate, especially in attics and basements, and replace old, drafty windows and weather-strip doors.

* As romantic as wood-burning fireplaces can be, they're not always efficient at heating the room. They can lose as much as 90 percent of the heat they generate, whereas propane fireplaces and log sets are up to 100 percent efficient. And the U.S. Department of Energy estimates that propane fireplaces cost 30 to 60 percent less per hour to operate than wood-burning fireplaces.

* Regularly inspect and tune-up your home's heating system to ensure it's efficient and saves you money in the long run.

* Change your furnace filter regularly. Clean filters will increase efficiency.

* Take heat with you — where you need it, when you need it. Propane space heaters let you heat the space you are using rather than heating your whole home, which saves energy while you maintain maximum comfort. Space heaters also can provide necessary spot treatment when you need a little extra warmth.

* Use kitchen, bath and other ventilating fans wisely. In just 60 minutes, these fans can pull out a houseful of warmed air. Turn fans off as soon as they have done the job.

in the 2008 elections to see which way our citizenry chooses. Will it be more, larger programs to cause many of our citizens to be more dependent or will they choose those candidates who champion less dependence? And this writer hopes there is a choice.

At this point in time, if it is not too late, all of us should evaluate where we are individually in this discussion. And what you think and do does make a difference. We are not going back 70 to 80 years ago and change what has been done. But, we can make every effort to not continue to make the same old mistakes that have been made for many years. We can help our fellow citizens without making them do-less and dependent on politicians who know that they have power when the citizens are "looking for" and "expecting" their representative to "produce" for their benefit. For that they pledge their vote.
