A HUNGRY BOOKWORM

Two large books are side on a shelf. The first book, on the left, contains two hundred pages. The second book contains one hundred pages.

A hungry bookworm got into the first book. It ate its way through the first page of the first book and all the way through the last page of the second book. How many pages (not counting the covers) did the bookworm eat through?

Have you figured out the answer?

Stephen Willard and Kristen Kauffman both came up with the correct answer during the Warren Library's Summer Reading program. Both received additional prizes for their good thinking.

The answer: When two books are side by side on a shelf, the front cover of the first book, the book on the left, is pressed against the back cover of the second book. A book's first page is next to its front cover, and its last page is next to its back cover. So, if the bookworm ate through the first page of the first book, it then ate its way through the book's front cover. Next, it ate its way through the back cover of the second book. Then it ate through the last page of the second book. So, altogether, it ate its way through only two pages.

MAILBOX VANDALISM IS A CRIME

Although it may seem like fun to some youngsters, causing damage to residential mailboxes by setting off firecrackers inside, hitting them with a club or painting them with graffiti isn't funny. Mailbox vandalism is a crime. Each act is a federal offense punishable by fine or imprisonment.

Mailbox damage hurts our community and all of us who live here. It makes us feel less secure in our neighborhoods. Vandalism can cause property values to drop and make prospective new residents think twice about moving here, knowing that our young people have such callous disregard for the property of others.

Vandalized mailboxes have to be replaced, costing the owner's time, money and inconvenience. Meanwhile, the Postal Service cannot deliver the mail. The lives of people who depend on monthly checks and other financial support through the mail are negatively affected. And some damaged mail cannot be replaced - family photos, letters from sons and daughters serving in the military overseas and other priceless keepsakes that mean so much to the recipient.

If you have youngsters at home, talk with them about the downside of damaging mailboxes, and vandalism in general. Remind them of the penalties, the impact on the victims, the possibility that they can get hurt or killed in the process and that the Postal Service doesn't take such crimes lightly.

If you have information on mailbox vandalism or mail theft in your area, report it to your local Post Office or to the Postal Inspection Service at 800-ASK-USPS (800-275-8777).

LEGISLATIVE BREAKFAST

The Youth Advisory Board of the Youth Services Bureau will be hosting a Legislative Breakfast August 5, 2005 from 9am until 10am at the YSB located at 1344 Maple Drive, Huntington.

The youth present had great questions and the communication between the elected officials and the youth was outstanding," Natalie Reed, YAB coordinator. "The YAB wanted to host the event again in order to allow more youth the opportunity to share their thoughts and ideas with those who have the power to make changes."

The event is designed for young people by young people, however, anyone is welcome to attend. The guests will answer questions submitted by the audience prior to the event through the moderator. ## KUDOS, KICKS & KARATS

DEAR EDITOR,

It is hard to believe it is time to start thinking of back to school already, however, it is. That means we are gearing up our "Tools for Life" school supply program. The "Tools for Life" program provides students, of any age, with the school supplies needed to start school. Last year, 355 students received school supplies. The program depends heavily on the generous donation of individuals, organizations, church groups and businesses. Collection barrels are currently being placed at Wal-Mart and Family Dollar. However, we are seeking other locations in which donations can be dropped off.

Based on the number of referrals we have already received we are anticipating a large number of families in need of this program this year. That means we will need even more community support if we are to meet these needs. We need your help!

You may be asking, "How can I help?" You can help in several ways. First, when you are out, perhaps purchasing supplies for your own children, purchase a few extra and place them in a collection barrel or our drop in by our office at 1344 Maple Drive, Huntington. If you are a business or organization you can become a collection site or seek donations from within your business/organization. Finally, you can provide a cash donation which will allow us to purchase items that are not donated or in great demand.

This IS such a fun program. Each year we see smiling faces of young children getting their new school supplies. Remember when you were in school, which was the best part of starting a new school year wasn't it? There is always someone who asks us if there are any criteria for the families involved, I simply say, "No". The reasoning is very simple, even if the parents could afford the school supplies but decides not to, it is the child who will suffer. Therefore, we assure ALL children start the school year on an even basis with other students.

To learn more about the Tools for Life program or the Youth Services Bureau feel free to contact us at 1-800-298-5444, 356-9681 or stop by the office at 1344 Maple Drive, Huntington.

Sincerely,

Jan Williams, Executive Director
Youth Services Bureau

WHY BEING KIND "FILLS YOUR BUCKET"

When you are kind to someone or give them a compliment, it lifts your mood. Authors Tom Rath and Donald Clifton, say you are "filling your bucket" of positive experiences.

In their book How Full Is Your Bucket (Gallup Press), they say every interaction you have adds to or subtracts from your bucket. Happiness depends on how full of positive, affirming experiences your bucket is at any given time.

Bucket-filling is contagious, the authors say. Your kindness sparks a chain reaction. It makes people you have been kind to want to be kind to others.

To keep your bucket full, they recommend five positive encounters to every negative one. You can reach that goal by commenting to people about what they do right. Support your friends. Give sincere smiles.

When someone compliments you, pass it on and let the feeling spread.

THE WEEKLY SPECIAL

by Helen @ Natalie Jeanne's A tribute to my Nonni

As most of you know, Natalie Jeanne's is named after Michael's grandmothers, whom he holds very near and dear to his heart. I, too, was fortunate enough to have two wonderful grandmothers in my life. My grandmother, Nonni De Gennaro, was my father's mother. You can tell by her last name that she was Italian and her culinary skills certainly reflected her ethnicity.

Nonni was always in the kitchen. The smell of her house would immediately make your stomach rumble. Even when she developed blindness in her later years, she still managed to cook meals that would put chefs to shame.

Last week at the Farmer's Market there was some gorgeous whole zucchini and squash for sale. Plum Tree Church even had white zucchini and I can tell you that it is delectable! This recipe of my grandmother's is something you can use for zucchini, squash, cauliflower, even corn. My favorite, though, is making this with squash blossoms.

Fried Squash Blossoms

Fritter Batter:

1½ cups of flour

¾ tsp salt

2 tsp baking powder

1 cup milk

1 egg

Mix flour, baking powder and salt. Beat egg with the milk, and then add to the flour mixture. Beat until smooth. Dip blossoms in batter and fry in olive oil. Dry on paper towel and season with salt. They are delicious, easy, and go well as an accompaniment to any dish.

I hope everyone is enjoying the Warren Farmer's Market as much as I am! It seems that every week there is something new and exciting for sale! Joan Prible and Susan Mookram are now selling beautiful fresh cut flowers and bouquets. They are sure to brighten anyone's day and they smell amazing!

Ruth Herring, one of our weekly vendors, also has some exciting news. She entered her Peach Jam in the Blackford County Fair and received the reserved champion award! Ruth sells her award winning jams and jellies at the market every Saturday. How lucky are we?! In my first year in Warren, I have encourtered so many examples of artistic genius. I feel honored to live in such a wonderfully eclectic town.

In the words of my Nonni, arriverderci!! And until next week, Bon Appetit!

BEGINNERS' CANOEING

Instructors will teach the basics of canoeing and paddling at Salamonie Lake Reservoir August 4 in a fun hands-on session from 6-8 p.m.

"Join the fun at Lost Bridge West Recreation Area," said interpretive naturalist Marvin McNew. "We'll provide the canoes, paddles and life jackets. Participants need to bring their own drink."

$14,000 FOR ASSIGNMENTS

Qualified enlistees in the U.S. Army's active component may be eligible for assignment incentive pay (AIP) of $400 a month for up to a period of 36 months if they agree to assignment with an Army-designated priority unit with a critical role in current global commitments, according to local recruiting officials.

Lt. Col. Jeffrey Lee, commander of the Army recruiting district that includes Indiana and eight counties in the greater Louisville, Ky., area, said soldiers who enlist for three or more years in a required skill may be eligible to receive AIP payments once they complete initial entry training and report to a designated priority unit.

Qualified recruits who receive AIP would also be eligible for other Army enlistment incentives, such as cash bonuses up to $20,000, student loan repayment up to $65,000, or the Army College Fund up to $70,000.

More information on AIP is available from local Army recruiting offices or at the service's web site, www.goarmy.com. To find the nearest recruiting office, check the U.S. government listings in the telephone directory's Blue Pages, or visit the web site and click on "Find a Recruiter."

WE WILL MISS YOU "BIG TIM"

For those of you who have not heard Tim Ehrhart Sr. passed away suddenly last week July 22nd.

Tim & Paula have owned P.J's pizza in town for several years. If you never got to know him, I can tell you what a wonderful light spirited person he was. They are the kind of folks that have the biggest hearts & would do anything to help anyone out, no questions asked.

I can not tell you how much Kim & I are going to miss him. They struggled all the time to keep the restaurant open & running as does Tim Jr. now.

Tim was a blessing to our community as is Tim Jr. and the entire family, & I am sorry for those of you that never got to know him. Take a moment often to know your neighbors just a smile & hello can make all the difference in the world. Don't judge a book by its cover. You never know when that friend will be taken from you. Remember God Has created all of us equal no one is better than another even though they have more in riches! Be kind! Offer help & above all Keep The Faith!!

We will miss you so much my friend but know you are with the Lord now & at Peace.
