BOOKS TO BE HANDED OUT

Many of our local Salamonie School students will have a new favorite book very soon. The Way To Go and My Favorite Book, beautifully illustrated volumes expressive of moral values, are being made available in certain local schools as a gift to 1st grade through 10 year olds by local business leaders who are concerned about the future of our children.

A copy of the volume goes home with the child to become his or her very own. Printed in these books is a Parent Guide explaining the values covered in the book along with suggested topics for family discussions. With My Favorite Book extra copies of the book are given to the school along with access to an interactive web site www.MyFavoriteBookLand.com incorporating the themes of the volume.

Without the support of local community leaders this program would not be possible.

The sponsors are Citizens Telephone Corp, Evalution Real Estate, Heritage Pointe, Gebhart's Floral and Campbell & Dye Insurance.

Libraries were asked to help direct our patrons to I-File, the state's "fast, friendly and free" online filing system. However, the Department of Revenue has reevaluated, and forms are now available at the Library.

SWIMMING PARTY?

Are you having a group party and not sure where to go? The Salamonie School swimming pool is available for rent. If you are interested, please call the office at 260-375-3434 for more information.

ITEMS NEEDED

Cammy Ackley is in need of empty wine bottles and the corks, for an event the Chamber of Commerce will be sponsoring this spring. It doesn't matter the color, shape or size. I do not want the "screw type" of bottles, just the ones with corks. If you also have a collection of bottle corks, I can use all that you have!

You can drop these off at either Ackley Automotive or at Citizens Telephone anytime. Thanks!

Presenting the detector to Chief Lee Poulson is Barry Hammel, field supervisor for Vectren Gas. The department wishes to thank Vectren and Barry for the generous donation to the department.

THE UPTOWN GARDENER
by Ruth Herring

Hang in there everyone, in the middle of February we should have the February thaw, at least for a few days. Believe me I am ready and I'm sure most of you are also.

On these cold days I am glad I don't have to worry about bringing in wood and coal, feed chickens and gather eggs and get the cows in for milking. Just don't miss that one bit! And I sure don't miss having to get up and get in a cold car to go to work. I think that is one of the blessings of retirement.

We had a warm day a few days ago and was outside and noticed I have some spring bulbs peeking thru the ground. It was sure an encouraging thought even though I know they will get froze a few more times. They are sure hard little things of nature.

Still have plants in my greenhouse blooming and some rooting nice. Soon I will plant them in soil. Be nice to get hands in the soil, even though it comes in a bag.

Trying to think of what to write this week and thoughts went back to the cold winter evenings after chores were all done we gathered around the nice warm wood stove to listen to our favorite programs on the radio. Of course dad first listened to the news and if it was a time for President Roosevelt to speak, that was a must to see if he agreed or disagreed with him. Some of our favorites was Amos and Andy, Giltersleeve, Mom enjoyed the afternoon soap opera stories, I think Guiding Light was one of them. Often that was also her sewing time either hand sewing in her favorite rocking chair or at the ole treadle sewing machine. That was when we kids were to not be rowdy and distract her. Us girls looked forward to the Hit Parade and my kid brother any shoot out western. That was almost like our tv as he had to act out the whole program only he was forbidden to damage any furniture or knock out windows.

Those were always good family times at our house often we shared bowls of popcorn for treats. Bottles of sodas were almost unheard of at our house, it was good cold well water or hot chocolate.

They were great times as long as we behaved or the electricity stayed on. Even that made for a fun time.

If we were all really good sometimes before the programs came on mom would make a batch of taffy candy and have a taffy pull, we had never seen before. We sang our birthday wishes to the three celebrating birthdays this month (Virginia Langdon, Becky Parker and Joyce Shepherd) and watched them make their wishes before blowing out their candles. Members attending were Fritz Boxell, Freddie Couch, Marian Huffman, Lilly Nutter, Becky Parker, Joyce Shepherd, guests Nancy Smyth, Ellen Laymon and our gracious hostess.

REDUCE MANURE RUNOFF

Purdue and Ohio State specialists recently discussed manure management practices to reduce manure runoff in farm fields. A new Ohio State University (OSU) study shows that if farmers who apply manure as fertilizer to no-till fields follow a few simple recommendations, they can decrease the chance that pathogens end up in runoff and pose environmental and health hazards.

OSU scientists studied the transport of Cryptosporidium, a parasite present in animal waste, through no-till and tilled fields. They found that a greater amount of the parasite moved along with excess water through no-till fields and into tile drains than in tilled fields, especially during a rain event.

To test the effect of tillage and rainfall on parasite transport, the researchers treated twelve plots – six undisturbed no-till and six no-till blocks that were tilled on the surface – with liquid manure containing Cryptosporidium oocysts.

"Even before any artificial rain was applied, almost 30 percent of the liquid manure moved through the no-till soil, but none moved through the tilled blocks," Warren Dick, OSU soil microbiologist, said. "During the rain event, a greater number of Cryptosporidium moved through the no-till blocks compared to the tilled blocks."

"If no-till growers can do just a little light tillage right over the drain tiles, it can have a tremendous impact on the movement of pathogens and nutrients from the soil surface to the field drain tiles, with potential decreases in the transport of oocysts up to 80 percent," Dick said.

"This study is in no way advocating that no-till is a bad management practice. As a whole, no-till has a multitude of environmental and crop production benefits," said Dick. "But, any production practice can be improved upon and this study demonstrates that there are ways of making no-till better for both people and the environment."

Purdue Extension Dairy Specialist, Tamilee Nennich, notes that injecting manure can also prevent runoff. "A lot of producers inject manure," Nennich said. "That's a great way to make sure the nutrients stay in the soil. If manure is spread on the soil surface, it provides a lot more opportunity for nutrients to run off. So incorporating manure instead of leaving it on the surface is very advantageous."

Nennich added, "Producers also need to pay attention to buffer areas, and if there are any sensitive areas, like low spots, avoid them. If it's possible, leave even greater buffer distances, especially in areas with down slopes, to try to prevent run off."

Nennich and Alan Sutton (from the Purdue Animal Science Department) coauthored a recent publication titled, "Management Tips for Spring Manure Applications." The publication (http://www.ces.purdue.edu/extmedia/AS/AS\_593\_W.pdf) provides suggestions for producers as they prepare for spring manure applications on farm fields.

JOINING FORCES

Pathfinder Community Connections, the Community Development division of Pathfinder Services and Huntington County Habitat for Humanity has partnered to help families in Huntington County.

On Tuesday, January 26th, Beth Stevens, Family Self Sufficiency Coordinator for Pathfinder Community Connections, John Niederman, President of Pathfinder Services, Inc., and Steve Miller, Executive Director for the Huntington County Habitat for Humanity announced the partnership.

The Huntington County Habitat for Humanity has a home that is now going to be used for Pathfinder Community Connection's Transitional Housing Program. Until this time the division had rented an apartment at Cedar Run apartments.

"By forming this partnership, we are hoping the gap from homelessness to homeowner will be a complete continuum," stated Stevens from Pathfinder Community Connections. "When the family enters our Transitional Housing program we will work with the family as we always have, but after 12 months we will begin the process of transitioning our families to homeowners. The family would not purchase the home they are living in, but would work toward becoming a Habitat partner homeowner building and purchasing their own home in the Huntington Community." Stevens concluded.

"Habitat is excited about this opportunity to partner with Pathfinder. This is an opportunity for the two agencies to focus and coordinate their resources and expertise to make a major impact in a homeless family's life and future." Stated Steve Miller Executive Director of Huntington County Habitat for Humanity.

"Habitat's mission around the globe is to end substandard housing and homelessness. Often though homeless families have no or limited income and legal debt that makes it impossible for even Habitat to be able to close their unique Zero interest, no profit mortgage that make the homeowners house payments under 30% of their household income. This partnership strengthens both agencies efforts and impacts in our community."

For more information on Pathfinder Community Connections, please contact Beth Stevens at Pathfinder Community Connections at (260) 356-0521 or e-mail Beth at bstevens@pathfinderservices.org.

THE CHERRY ORCHARD

Huntington University Theatre Company is excited to bring another classic to the stage with Anton Chekhov's brilliant last play. An ensemble cast of vivid characters will entertain, challenge and provide insight into why human nature is so reluctant to change.

The Cherry Orchard satirically scrutinizes the interplay of social classes in early 20th century Russia. As the Tsarist rule approaches its end, Madame Ranevskaya and her bourgeois family face social and economic disintegration, yet blissfully ignore the reality that is imminent.

Huntington University sophomore Kate Smith leads the cast in her role as Madame Ranevskaya, owner of the cherry orchard. She is joined by senior Matthias Austin in his role as Yermolai Lopakhin, the gentleman interested in purchasing the cherry orchard, and many others. The Cherry Orchard is directed by Thom Hofrichter.

"The brilliance in Chekhov's plays are those moments when the audience can both laugh and cry at the same time to what is happening on the stage," Director Thom Hofrichter, said.

There are 4 performances of The Cherry Orchard in Zurcher Auditorium of the Merillat Centre for the Arts at Huntington University. The performances run Feb. 18, Feb. 19, and Feb. 20 all starting at 7:30 PM, with a matinee performance on Feb. 20 starting at 2 PM. Tickets cost $12 general admission, $10 students and seniors, $6 13 and younger, $5 HU students, and $9 HU faculty/staff.

For reservations, call the Merillat Centre for the Arts Box Office at 260.359.4261 on Mondays through Fridays from 9 AM to 4 PM. Box Office is closed from 11:30 AM to 1 PM and on weekends.

SUPER BOWL SAFETY

According to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA), Super Bowl Sunday is one of the most dangerous days to travel on U.S. roadways due to impaired driving. That is why the Governor's Council on Impaired & Dangerous Driving is urging all motorists who plan to celebrate Super Bowl XLIV with alcohol, to designate a sober driver before the festivities begin.

"The Super Bowl is one of the nation's largest and most widely viewed sporting events, enjoyed by fans of all ages. As Indiana fans prepare to cheer the Indianapolis Colts on to Super Bowl victory this Sunday, we should also be united in our efforts as responsible motorists to keep our roadways safe. That's why we encourage fans who plan to consume alcohol to turn over their keys to a designated driver before the big game kicks off," said ICJI Executive Director, T. Neil Moore.

In 2009, two-thirds of the fatal collisions that occurred in Indiana over Super Bowl weekend involved a driver that was either drunk or under the influence of illegal drugs. For the past two years, at least half of the state's traffic fatalities during this period were caused by an impaired driver. Additionally, 75 percent of the individuals killed in these collisions were not wearing a seat belt.

"Over the past several years, we have seen an impressive drop in the number of traffic related fatalities in Indiana. While this record is a testament to tougher traffic safety laws that are carried out by our law enforcement partners across the state, still more can be done to save lives on Indiana's roadways," Moore continued. "Make a play for safety this Super Bowl weekend – designate a sober driver and remember to buckle up – every seat, every trip, every time."

By following a few simple steps, fans can avoid arrest, serious injury, or worse as a result of driving while impaired:

- * Avoid drinking too much alcohol too fast - pace yourself. Eat, take breaks and alternate with non-alcoholic drinks.

- * Designate your sober driver before the game begins and give that person your car keys.

- * If you become impaired, don't even think about getting behind the wheel. Ask a sober friend or family member for a ride, call a cab, or stay where you are and sleep it off.

- * If you see an impaired driver on the road, call 911.

If you are hosting a Super Bowl party, responsibility matters:

- * Serve plenty of food – and be sure to include lots of non-alcoholic beverages.

- * Stop serving alcohol at the end of the third quarter.

- * Be sure all of your guests designate their drivers in advance, or help arrange ride-sharing with sober drivers.

- * Keep the numbers for local cab companies handy.

If you think someone is about to drive while impaired, take their keys and help them make arrangements to safely get to their destination. Remember, Fans Don't Let Fans Drive Drunk.

K105 BASKETBALL

PESTICIDE TRAINING

Residents of Huntington County and surrounding areas who are licensed private pesticide applicators in Indiana are encouraged to attend a recertification training session on Thursday February 11. This session will be held from 9:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. in Heritage Hall at Hier's Park in Huntington.

A $10 fee is required for those who wish to obtain recertification credit for attending the program. Attendees who wish to obtain credit are reminded to bring their Indiana Private Pesticide Applicator license number with

Note that similar private pesticide applicator recertification programs are being held in Wells County from 2:00 p.m. to 4:00 p.m. and in Adams County from 6:00 p.m. to 8:00 p.m. on February 11. Please pre-register for the Huntington County program by calling the Huntington County Extension Office by February 9th.

Purdue Extension Specialists, Shaun Casteel and Bob Nielsen, will be giving presentations at these programs. Casteel will be presenting the topic, "High Yield Management of Soybeans" and Nielsen will be discussing "Corn Management for 2010: Staying One Step Ahead of Soybeans." Ed Farris, Huntington County Extension Educator, will also give a presentation on "Bulk Pesticide and Fertilizer Storage" at the Huntington program.

Casteel is a soybean and small grains specialist in the Department of Agronomy at Purdue. He has been on board as a Purdue Extension Specialist since May 2009. His key areas of interest include: precision management of resources and practices; integration of soil characteristics, nutrient inputs, and crop physiology; and the influence of agronomic practices on yield physiology of first crop and double crop soybean systems (winter wheat and cover crop).

Nielsen's area of expertise is corn management systems. He is a professor in the Department of Agronomy at Purdue as well as a frequent presenter at Extension crop management workshops state-wide. Nielsen provides grower updates on two Web sites. The King Corn Web site (www.kingcorn.org) has timely information to assist producers in raising corn more profitably. The most recent addition is called "Nitrogen Management Update for Indiana." Nielsen coauthored this publication (updated January 2010) with others in the Department of Agronomy at Purdue.

Other topics related to crop production from universities across the U.S. can be found at Nielsen's Web site called The Chat 'n Chew Café (www.kingcorn.org/cafe). Grain producers can also find helpful links regarding the weather, grain markets, and other educational programs and materials at this Web site.

REBATE PROGRAM

Lt. Governor Becky Skillman today announced the opening of the Indiana Heating and Cooling Incentive Program (IHIP) that will provide rebates for the purchase and installation of Energy Star Rated furnaces, boilers, central air conditioners and heat pumps. The rebates range from $150 to $1,000 depending on the technology that is installed.

"Hoosiers with older, inefficient heating and cooling systems are watching their money literally go out the window," said Lt. Governor Becky Skillman. "This program will bring the cost of replacing those less efficient systems within reach of more Hoosier homeowners."

IHIP is the Indiana program that is part of the federal State Energy Efficiency Appliance Rebate Program (SEEARP). Indiana received $6.1 million for the program, which will remain active until the funds are exhausted. This program will compliment the rebate or incentive programs already in place through many of Indiana's utility companies.

"Replacing an older furnace can be expensive," said Indiana Office of Energy Development (OED) Director Brandon Seitz. "When the IHIP rebate and any available rebate from a utility are combined with state and federal tax incentives, the final cost of a higher efficiency furnace, boiler, central air or heat pump fits into the budgets of more Hoosiers."

Included in the rebate program: Listed by their Energy Star Rated Technology followed by the incentive.

Gas Furnace > 92% AFUE* $300

Central air conditioner > 14.5 SEER** $150

Heat pump (air to air)*** $500

the program as well as download rebate forms and other materials at the IHIP Web site, <http://www.INenergyefficiency.com>. The Web site is also linked from OED's Web site, www.energy.IN.gov.

Consumers without Internet access can call 800-573-3503 to have a copy of the form mailed to them.

The rebates are available to help offset the cost of a heating and cooling system purchased and installed on or after February 1, 2010 in any single family home in Indiana. To qualify, the home must be the primary residence of the homeowner. If replacing more than one technology, a household may be eligible for multiple rebates, but there are restrictions on the total rebate amount any single household may receive.

Rebate forms can be downloaded, and mailed in with the appropriate documentation regarding the purchase and installation. The rebate application must be received within 30 days of the date the equipment was purchased. Rebate checks will be mailed back to those Hoosiers who qualify within 4 to 8 weeks.

HOW TO SAVE YOUR SATURDAYS!

by the FlyLady, Marla Cilley
Our whole lives we have played "Catch Up on the Weekends"! This put a sense of dread into our daily life. We no longer looked forward to a wonderful weekend filled with fun with our friends and family. This all started when we were children. It is how our mothers did it! We would have to spend all day Saturday cleaning house or we were banished to our rooms for the evening. I truly believe this is why we despise cleaning house. It has always been a punishment for us. I want you to have a reward for your Home Blessing Efforts! A Saturday to play is a great gift for you!

The solution to saving your Saturdays is very simple. Let's think about how many hours you spend frantically cleaning to catch up from a whole week tossing your routines out into the street! Between our piling and procrastination our homes look like a bomb went off. You can look at a room and see evidence of the things that were done this week. You know the package that had to be wrapped for a birthday party or the whole week's worth of mail piled on the kitchen counter that is about to fall into the floor.

On Saturday you don't wake up all excited about cleaning all day. You sleep in a bit; drag around in your pajamas for a couple of hours with a pot of coffee to get you moving in the right direction. By the time you get started it is already noon! The next six hours are spent cleaning like a banshee so that you don't feel terrible. All the while you are yelling out orders for everyone in the family to get in gear! I get sick just thinking about what we have done us and our family; all because we lie to ourselves with these words; I DON'T HAVE TIME!

The truth is; what you don't have is ROUTINES! You have the time, you just choose not to do anything because you don't think you have six hours to do it right! Well you don't have six hours to clean like a banshee but you do have 15 minutes.

Implementing just five minutes in the morning, when you come home from work and before bed will give you back your Saturdays. Maybe we can call this our 5 Minute Room Saturday Rescue.

The secret is to pick up after yourself and get the family to do it right along with you! It can become a fun game. Set your timer three times a day, morning, when you get home from work or school and just before bed. Everyone has to put away the things that belong to them. It is up to you to remember to do it. When you forget you only make it harder to do the next time.

This does not mean you can leave the dishes in the sink and on the table. This is part of cleaning up after dinner and shining your sink. If you do this all week long then on Saturday you can do your Weekly Home that was a special treat (enough so we behaved).

Blessing Hour! With your piles put away and hot spots extinguished, your Weekly Home Blessing Hour is a Breeze! Then you are off to have some fun.

4 cups sugar, pour 2 cups boiling water over it let stand till sugar is melted. Place over the fire keep a lid on the pan so the crystals will not form on sides of pan. After cooking a few minutes add 3 tablespoon vinegar and 2 tablespoon butter, Cook with the pan covered until the taffy tests hard when a bit is dropped in cold water and hardens at once. Pour into a buttered platter or cookie sheet and set someplace where it will cool quickly. When cool enough to handle with hands use a spatula and keep turning in folds so it will all cool together. When ready to handle sprinkle flavoring and start pulling. Always start pulling from ends and try not to press strands together. When pulled it should be white in color. Lay out on a board dusted with powdered sugar. Break into small pieces by striking with a table knife handle.

Keep warm! Think spring!

MEATBALL CONTEST 2010

Joel Knight, 15 year old son of Lowell and Karen Knight, held his 8th annual meatball contest on January 1" at noon. Due to the popularity or just plain old curiosity the location was changed from Joel's house to the Knight-Bergman Center. We needed the room and the guests needed a place to eat comfortably. Joel had 37 guests this year.

Joel was placed in another area while the guests arrived, and so it began. With the help of Monica Sliger, Brian and Shannon Eddie the entries were taken to Joel with only a number on them, a copy of numbers and names are taken too. Joel really had his work ahead of him, he had 13 entries this year. While Joel was busy with his judging duties the rest of the guests got to enjoy all the entries, side dishes and deserts. It was great. I think Joel's plan worked again this year. Coming together of family and friends enjoying being together and great conversation.

After about an hour Joel joined us, you could tell because all got quiet. He made his Thank you all for coming speech and got right to what everyone was waiting for. Starting with 3rd place: Bruce Souers; 2nd place: Margaret Knight; and 1st place and our Champion Mandy Maddock, well done you three. All received ribbons with the Champion receiving an award of excellence and a red rose with purple ribbon, Mandy also earned bragging rites for this year. Other entries were from: Waldo Knight; David Hilger; Sherry Knight; Denise and Dale Beck; Diane and Justin Carroll; Shannon and Brian Eddie; Tom, Carol and Jordan Carnes; Jason Knight; Marla and Rod Lines; and Robert and Monica Sliger. All contestants received a Thank you gift from Joel to express his gratitude. What a fine job everyone did.

I think everyone would join me in thanking Joel for starting our New Year off with fun and excitement. I don't think the 8 year old Joel had this in mind back in 2002 when he started this, he just liked meatballs.

Once again a big Thank You to Joyce Sorg for all her help, we really need you, and to the KBC for a much more roomier and comfortable place for our guests and most importantly to those who made an entry, Joel couldn't do this without all of you, and lastly to all our guests who just want to hang out and have fun, you all make this such an enjoyable start to a new year. Thank You!

God Bless and Lord willing we will see you all next year.
