Thought for the Week: Who we are is reflected in the people we choose as friends. Anonymous

SPECIAL THANKS TO A SPECIAL LADY

Mrs. Lilly Nutter of Heritage Pointe was recently surprised with a trip to Ohio by Mr and Mrs John Lichoff. (John is the president of the USS Salamonie organization.) Below is the news as forwarded to me by John.

Itinerary Ms: Lilly Nutter February 2, 2007

On This date my wife (Dorothy) and I went to Warren Indiana to get Ms. Lilly Nutter and under the pretense of bringing her to Ohio to meet some of the troops that she had sent care packages to while they were in "Harms" way in Iraq.

They are the men and women of the 316th and the 612th units of the Ohio National Guard.

Before we left for Ohio, we had to go to her room and see the packages that she had ready to be sent to troops in harms way.

Upon arrival back to Norwalk, she was reunited with Captain Shannon Ditz. Who along with her husband Major David Ditz were recipients of care packages during their individual deployments.

After supper Lilly met Major Ditz's K-9 partner Fazio. (Fazio and David are Police officers with the Norwalk Police department).

After returning to home (Lichoff's) she then met another guard member (Sergeant Jon Nutter) and his family and brother.

Their names are the same and after comparing notes, towns, family's, and relatives, it was determined that they were distant cousins. A happy reunion with pictures then entailed.

Lilly then got to talk to an individual on the phone from New York who is a major contributor to her cause. A Mr. Michael McAllister.

The rest of the evening was then going thru albums of pictures of past reunions and the scrapbook that Lilly had been making of all the troops she had encountered.

February 3, 2007: After a warm breakfast Lilly prepared for the days activities with no idea of what was in store for her.

At 11:15 Am Lilly was taken to the Norwalk Armory thinking she was just going to meet the guys.

First Sergeant Howard Smith, First Sergeant Brian Alger and Company Commander Lt. Pruitt then met Lilly at the front door.

The troops were then called to formation, (106 strong) and Lilly was then escorted thru the formation with a rousing ovation from everyone.

At the head of the line Lilly was then introduced to the troops.

Sergeant Smith then introduced Lilly to the company.

Sergeant Smith then asked for a show of hands whoever received something from Lilly. Approximately one half of the company raises their hands.

Coming March 1st, 2 p.m. to the Applegate Chapel at Heritage Pointe is Dino Kartsonakis.

Dino Kartsonakis, known professionally simply as "Dino," was born and raised in New York City, the grandson of first generation Greek immigrants.

For the last 16 years, Dino has entertained Branson, Missouri, audiences with his exceptional musical talent and showmanship.

Taking time out from their touring schedule and Branson shows, Dino and his wife, Cheryl, co-host a weekly television series on TBN (Trinity Broadcast Network), the top rated Christian television network. Recently, The Dino Show claimed the No. 2 Neilson rating for the entire network. TBN takes The Dino Show around the world. Dino jokes, "Being a pianist allows me to play in any language."

Dino's numerous album recordings have received many well-deserved accolades including a Grammy Award for his involvement on The Apostle soundtrack, a Grammy nomination for "Chariots of Fire," and eight Gospel Music Association Dove Awards. Dino's latest accomplishment was the realization of a lifelong dream: a headline performance at the prestigious Carnegie Hall with the Manhattan Pops Orchestra and Chorale in New York City, on December 15, 2005.

SALMONELLA SCARE

The Indiana State Department of Health reports there are currently 13 confirmed cases of Salmonella tennessee in Indiana included in the national outbreak associated with Peter Pan peanut butter. The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) has reported 288 cases of Salmonella tennessee in 39 states.

State health officials are warning consumers not to eat Peter Pan peanut butter and certain jars of Great Value peanut butter. The affected jars of peanut butter have a product code located on the lid of the jar that begins with the number 2111. Great Value brand peanut butter has not been implicated in the outbreak, but is manufactured in the same plant as Peter Pan peanut butter and is believed to be at similar risk of contamination.

"This is a broad recall of all Peter Pan peanut butter and certain jars of Great Value peanut butter in order to prevent any further illnesses," said Lynae Granzow, epidemiologist at the State Department of Health. "Individuals who have recently eaten the specified brands of peanut butter and are currently experiencing symptoms of Salmonella infection can contact their health care provider for testing."

Symptoms include vomiting, diarrhea, fever, cramps, nausea, and gas usually 18-36 hours after exposure. Symptoms may last 48-72 hours. People with poor underlying health or weakened immune systems are at risk for life-threatening infections. Most cases of Salmonella infection are short lived, and do not require medical care or antibiotics.

People who ate Peter Pan or Great Value peanut butter and did not become ill or are no longer ill should discontinue eating it and can contact ConAgra Foods at (866) 344-6970 for a refund. These individuals do not need to submit the peanut butter for testing. The CDC is testing peanut butter only from individuals who have tested positive for Salmonella tennessee. At this point, Salmonella has not been isolated from the peanut butter.

"Individuals who have eaten a different brand of peanut butter do not need to be concerned," said Granzow. "Also, this is still the season for viral gastroenteritis, and many people who are experiencing gastrointestinal symptoms most likely are not involved in this outbreak."

According to the Food and Drug Administration, the outbreak of Salmonella tennessee appears to be ongoing and the first case may have become ill in August 2006. As a result of extensive epidemiological investigation and a recent case control study, the CDC was recently able to identify Peter Pan peanut butter as a common food among the cases. The FDA hopes to narrow down the potential source of the outbreak to a more specific lot number or expiration date.

KUDOS, KICKS & KARATS

THE UPTOWN GARDENER

by Ruth Herring

Has everybody found their way out of the snowdrifts? This has certainly been a change from the nice weather we had all winter. Maybe this will be winter all in one shot. I think there is enough snow to last us for quite a while. I sit here in the sunroom and think about what I want to plant in the garden this spring and all I can see is a drift the length of the garden about 4 feet high. Oh well February and March is the time for dreaming and planning so it doesn't matter how high the drifts are.

When this snow melts we may see some tulips and spring bulbs poking thru the ground. Before this cold blast I had a few things coming up.

This snow insulated the ground and vegetation can often keep growing.

I sit here thinking back to the fun things we did when we had deep snows and some things were not so much fun such as shoveling paths to the barn, chicken house, coal shed and most of all the outhouse. The later path was always a challenge no matter what time of year. Our back yard had a fair size slope to it and I could never understand why my dad put our brand new toilet at the bottom of a hill. We had gotten it in the 1930's when the country was coming out of the depression. It was made by WPA people who the government had put to work at various jobs.

Our outhouse was, by outdoor plumbing standards, very nice and we were one of the few families in the area to get one. I always thought it deserved a place at the top of the hill. Anyway back to the shoveling, the hill was a real challenge then my dad decided to make a board walk to it. Not a good idea. I had many a splinter picked out of me. Because of that he finally decided it wasn't a good idea. We were all glad to have better footing on more solid ground.

One thing we always did was make snow ice cream it was always good because we had good rich milk and cream to make it with and an extra treat was when we had warm, fresh from the oven, cookies to go with it.

Wayne and I have made it for the kids but with the pollution in the air we don't feel safe making it and besides we don't have the good rich cream to make it with.

On days we went out to play it was usually sledding or snowball fights sometimes we would dig a cave in the snowdrifts. Our dog Queenie was always out there with us trying to get a snowball started with her nose and in the throwing of snowballs she would try catching them with her mouth. She was so much fun anytime of the year. Another thing I liked was when my dad would ask me to go with him to bring up the cows and would go tromping across the fields and pastures. We nearly always had to stop at our favorite resting place which was a fallen tree and would sit a while and watch all the beautiful winter birds. There is where he taught me the names of the "winter friends" as he called them. Also in the same place I learned the names of the summer returns. I always felt special that he asked me to go with him instead of my older sisters.

Hard work and fun times are all good memories of winter days of yesteryear. So try to enjoy the snow and dream a little. Spring is not far away.

Couldn't decide on a recipe so here is how we made snow ice cream. Mom would have us get a dishpan full of really clean snow and she added some sugar and the cream and little milk to it. It would

CARIES AND SECONDHAND SMOKE

A STUDY COMPLETED AT THE University of Rochester School of Medicine and coauthored by the American Academy of Pediatrics Center for Child Health Research has associated secondhand or "passive" smoke as a risk for dental caries. As reported in GDA Action (May 2003), children have a higher rate of caries when they grow up around smokers than children who do not. The research examined data from the National Health and Nutrition Examination Survey of 3,531 children aged 4 to 11 years. These children underwent both a dental examination and a blood test for cotinine (which measures nicotine exposure).

Results indicated that children with increased levels of cotinine had more decay evident in their deciduous teeth than children with no secondhand smoke exposure. Even after adjusting for age, family income, geographic region and frequency of dental visits, the results were the same. The conclusion reached was that there exists a link between passive smoke and the risk of cavities in children. A reduction in secondhand smoke is important for children's dental health. ¹

CLEAR SNOW

There aren't many things that will stop a letter carrier from completing his or her appointed rounds. But an injury caused by ice and snow-covered walks and approaches is one of them.

Fortunately, that is easily prevented when customers keep a few simple things in mind.

"We really appreciate when people clear the path to their mailbox," said Warren Postmaster Stephanie Bauman. "Whether their letter carrier delivers on foot or from their vehicle, it's much safer and quicker for them when customers shovel the snow and de-ice the walkways."

According to the Warren Postmaster, customers should check the area surrounding their mailbox daily to be sure no ice has built up. Just because there is only a dusting of snow doesn't mean that there isn't a hazard lurking underneath the powder.

For roadside boxes, customers should clear any piles created by snow plows that make it difficult for a carrier to reach the box from the delivery vehicle. This is a problem especially as the winter season wears on.

"Each time it snows the pile from the plows get bigger and eventually it prevents the delivery vehicle from pulling up alongside the box," said Bauman. "Then, it turns to ice and is very difficult to remove."

The Warren Postmaster suggests a quick shovel after every snowfall to ensure uninterrupted mail delivery.

"We know how much people look forward to receiving their mail, and we want to deliver it safely all through the winter," said Bauman.

LEARN ABOUT WELLS

It's a little known fact: Nearly half of Americans rely on ground water for all or part of their water supply through privately owned household wells or ground-water supplied community systems.

With all those wells come lots of questions about proper well construction, maintenance, water quality and ground water protection. Answers to many of these questions can be found at the National Ground Water Association (NGWA) Web site, W e l l o w n e r . o r g (www.wellowner.org).

Wellowner.org includes practical information on:

- * Well basics
- * Well maintenance
- * Water quality
- * How to find a water well contractor
- * Ground water

"Every day, Americans use billions of gallons of ground water from household wells," said Kevin McCray, executive director of the NGWA. "Yet, many well owners know very little about well basics. Wellowner.org provides a place where well owners can learn more about the importance of well maintenance, water testing and ground water protection."

The web site provides practical information on what's involved in a proper well checkup by a contractor, causes and solutions to water pressure issues, well protection, contamination and more.

AMERICA SAVES WEEK

February 25-March 4, 2007

America saves is a nationwide campaign in which a broad coalition of nonprofit, corporate, and government groups help individuals and families save and build wealth. Through information, advice, and encouragement, we assist those who wish to pay down debt, build an emergency fund, save for a home, save for an education, or save for retirement.

Many believe that low- and moderate-income families cannot afford to save and build wealth. Yet research shows that there are "savers" and "spenders" in all income levels. Those with modest incomes cannot save as much as the affluent, but almost all have the ability to build wealth over time. Through contributions to a workplace retirement program, home purchase, and other savings, during their working years most can accumulate six-figure assets. The goal of the campaign is to convince all Americans that they can build wealth and to assist them in doing so.

We find it useful to see individual Americans on a ten mile path to saving. Those that haven't walked a mile don't understand the importance of saving, so don't save. Those at mile three are aware of this value, but don't believe they are capable of saving, so don't do so. Those at mile six see the importance of saving and think they might be able to do so, but haven't started yet. Those at mile seven have begun to save. Those at mile ten are saving as effectively as they can, which also means that they are effectively managing their money and debts.

We encourage all Americans, especially the financially vulnerable, to travel down this saving path, keeping in mind it is difficult to move more than a mile or two at a time. If many Americans start moving down the path, then the whole country will place greater importance on saving. Parents, schools, employers, financial institutions, government agencies, the press, and nonprofit groups will increasingly focus attention on wealth-building and assist those they serve to do so. As a result, it will become much easier for everyone to save and build wealth. More information about America Saves week is available on the web site www.americasaves.org.

Huntington County will be hosting two financial literacy classes this week to encourage everyone to take part in improving their financial future. On Monday, February 26, the Making Your Money Work series will begin at 3:30pm and run through 5pm at the Courthouse Annex second floor meeting room. This is a six session series that will show participants ways to have enough money for the things they value. Where Does Your Money Go? will be offered on Thursday, March 1 at 6pm. This two hour class will give participants tools to take home and use to make the most of their money. Childcare and transportation are available for Where Does Your Money Go? Please register in advance to attend either class by calling the Huntington County Purdue Extension office at 260-358-4826. These classes are made possible by Life Long Learning of

CHILD PASSENGER SAFETY

According to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA), approximately 7,500 lives have been saved by the proper use of child passenger safety restraints during the past 20 years. Yet, motor vehicle crashes still remain the number one killer of children ages 4 to 14 in America. Too often child safety seats are improperly used or not used at all.

The primary goal of this public awareness campaign is to remind all parents and other adults responsible for children traveling in motor vehicles that if children are 4'9" and under, they are required to be in a booster seat.

"In 2005, an average of five children under the age of 15 were killed nationwide in motor vehicle crashes every single day," said Mike Cunegin, executive director of the Indiana Criminal Justice Institute. "For this reason, ICJI, along with our state and local law enforcement partners will continue to work hard throughout the year to educate parents and caregivers about the importance of properly restraining their children."

Another goal of this public awareness campaign is to remind all parents and other adults that all children ages eight to 16 riding in a motor vehicle must be in a child restraint or use a seat belt, including those who ride in pickup trucks and vehicles plated as pickup trucks.

According to NHTSA, belt positioning booster seats reduce the risk of injury in a motor vehicle crash by nearly 60 percent. The Automotive Safety Program at Riley Hospital finds that one in three Indiana children are not properly restrained in their booster seats.

"As children grow, the ways in which they need to be secured in a car, truck, van or SUV change," said ICJI Traffic Safety division Director, Ryan Klitzsch. "The goal of this campaign is to enforce Indiana's safety belt laws and make sure motorists are restraining children the correct way."

Additionally, it is always important for expectant mothers to wear their safety belts in order to protect themselves and their unborn child(ren). Expectant mothers should position passenger vehicle lap belts across their hips and below their bellies. Shoulder belts should lie diagonally across the chest.

For maximum child passenger safety, parents and caregivers simply need to remember and follow the 4 Steps for Kids:

1) For the best possible protection keep infants in the back seat, in rear-facing child safety seats, as long as possible up to the height or weight limit of the particular seat. At a minimum, keep infants rear-facing until age one and at least 20 pounds;

2) When children outgrow their rear-facing seats they should ride in forward-facing child safety seats, in the back seat of a vehicle, until they reach the upper weight or height limit of the particular seat (usually around age four and 40 pounds);

3) Once children outgrow their forward-facing seats, they should ride in booster seats, in the back seat of the vehicle, until the seat belts fit properly. Seat belts fit properly when the lap belt lays across the upper thighs and the shoulder belt fits across the chest (usually at age 8 or when they are 4'9" tall);

4) When children outgrow their booster seats, they can use the adult seat belt in the back seat of the vehicle, providing it fits properly.

For more information about child passenger safety in Indiana, please contact the Automotive Safety Program at Riley Hospital at (800) KID-N-CAR or visit www.preventinjury.org.

The Governor's Council on Impaired & Dangerous Driving serves as the public opinion catalyst and the implementing body for statewide action to reduce death and injury on Indiana roadways. The Council provides grant funding, training, coordination and ongoing support to state and local traffic safety advocates.

BRIDGES OUT OF POVERTY

The Bridges Out of Poverty training gives participants key lessons in dealing with individuals from poverty. Participants will learn how to use mental models to communicate effectively, and to assist clients from poverty to learn quickly. Bridges reaches out to the providers and businesses whose daily work connects them with the lives of people in poverty, as well as individuals and groups who are interested in assisting people living in poverty to succeed. If you work with or want to work with people living in poverty, only a deeper understanding of their challenges and strengths will help you partner with them to create opportunities for success.

This training is recommended for social service agencies, trustees, hospital employees, Physicians offices, dental offices, law enforcement, dispatch operators, persons working within the legal system such as probation officers, judges, and court employees. It is also highly recommended for churches, especially those involved in outreach such as soup kitchens, food pantries, etc., as well as those churches who participate in mission trips. Although living situations may be very different on mission trips, the hidden rules of poverty are cross cultural and apply many places mission groups visit. Anyone who has an interest in helping to make the community a better place is encouraged to attend.

The training will be held on March 1, 2007 at the Huntington University Dining Commons, upstairs. Lunch will be served, included in the registration fee. All participants will receive a Bridges Out of Poverty text, by Dr. Ruby Payne. Presenting the program will be Karen Hinshaw, Huntington County Extension Educator, and Annette Pairsh, Delaware County Extension Educator, both certified trainers for the Bridges Out of Poverty Curriculum. This is an all day training to begin at 9am and conclude at approximately 4pm.

Registration forms may be obtained by calling the Huntington County Purdue Extension Office at 260-358-4826. Registration cost is $35 per person, including lunch and the text and is due no later than Friday, February 23.

SNOW, SNOW, SNOW

When Valentine's Day dawned with a beautiful sunny day, most people found it a real relief from the heavy snow and windy conditions which started late Monday night. Many counties were under a snow advisory.

The small town of Van Buren was no exception.

The Police Department reported many streets in town were drifted, but local crews managed to keep them in good condition despite the blowing and drift-ing snow. As of Wednesday morning there were no accidents in town due to weather conditions. Many county roads were reported in bad condition.

At the Northview Apartments many residents were unable to get out due to high drifts of five to six feet in front of their doors. By late Wednesday afternoon all walks had been cleared so residents could once again get out their doors.

Local Help for People with Medicare

Q: If I need to file a complaint about my Medicare Prescription Drug Plan, should I contact Medicare?

A: The first step in filing a complaint is to contact your Medicare Prescription Drug Plan (PDF). The plan will log your complaint into their tracking system. The timeframe for resolving complaints is dependant on whether it is an urgent case, or a non-urgent case. An urgent case is defined as a situation where the lack of medication is life threatening, an immediate need. The turnaround time for an urgent case is 48-72 hours.

An example of a non-urgent case would be you haven't received your plan card, or there is an issue with the co-pay, but you are still able to get your medication. The plan is allowed a timeframe of 30 days from the date of request for non-urgent cases. When you contact the plan to file a complaint, the plan should be able to give you an idea of when you should receive a response.

Any follow-up needs to be conducted with your drug plan. If the complaint has not been resolved in a timely manner, you can then contact 1-800 Medicare. The customer service representative will log the complaint and the complaint will be transferred to Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services' (CMS) tracking system. CMS will contact the plan and provide a guideline (including a timeframe) for resolving the complaint.

Address your questions to: Ask SHIP, 714 West 53rd St, Anderson IN 46013 or www.Medicare.in.gov 1-800-452-4800.

Lilly was then introduced to Mr. Richard Carlisle, (the local veterans service officer) who had an award for her.

It was a plaque in appreciation for her services to the soldiers for her work in sending care packages.

It was from the State of Ohio and was signed by former governor of Ohio, Honorable Robert Taft.

Then she was then presented with a tee shirt and medallion from the company, along with a large sheet cake.

Lilly then thanked everyone for the honor bestowed upon her and then posed for pictures along side her cake.

The cake was the cut for everyone to share.

Then all the troops who had received items all lined up individually and shook hands and hugged her.

The press was there and many pictures were taken.

She then had an extensive interview with the press about all her items and packages and she showed her scrapbook of all the letters and e-mails that she had received from the troops.

Then Major David Ditz and his partner Fazio showed up and had their picture taken with her.

A group picture was then taken with Lilly in the center and all the troops around her.

As Lilly was getting ready to leave, all the troops gave her a resounding ovation of thanks.

For one of the few times in her wonderful life Lilly was so overwhelmed that she kept saying, "I must be dreaming, please don't wake me."

Later in the afternoon, the local

Red Hatters of Norwalk honored Lilly at the local restaurant for a light lunch and tea.

She was welcomed by the Grand Mum, Mrs. Oppen and then introduced to the rest of the party.

They presented her with a beautiful red rose, box of candy, and an artificial red rose made out of fancy woman's lingerie.

Lilly then thanked the group and explained her group and what she was doing in Norwalk.

There were eighteen Red Hat Ladies present and all had a good time.

Then later in the evening, Lilly went to the Eagles Club for supper with Sergeant Jeff Moehle.

Jeff was with the unit and has since retired from the National Guard. Jeff and Lilly became very close penpals while he was deployed and have stayed in touch ever since.

After a long tiring day, Lilly retired back to the Lichoff household to rest for her return trip back to Warren, Indiana tomorrow.
