HISTORICAL DEDICATION

Several turned out Saturday morning for the unveiling of the new sign at the Warren Public Library.

This marker is part of the State of Indiana Historical Marker program administered by the Indiana Historical Bureau. Jeremy Hackerd of the Indiana Historical Bureau was on hand to explain the marker and participate in the unveiling.

In 1914, a few men and women who had long dreamed of a public library for Warren, Indiana, investigated the necessary legal requirements. Robert McCrum, superintendent of the Warren schools, and P.H. Beck consulted with the State Library Commission, who recommended that they organize under the Indiana Library Law of 1901. Interested persons met on June 16, 1916, and elected as officers Monroe Wiley, P.H. Beck, Tillie Fleming, and B.F. Young. Others present at that first meeting were Charles Barnes, Frank Canady, O.E. Hagler, Jasper Blair, Maggie Kriegbaum, Vienna Laymon, and Minnie Roberts.

The required number of signatures on a library petition were obtained, and a sum equal to 0.2 of one percent of the taxable property of the town was raised through popular subscription. It then became mandatory for the town council, school board, and circuit judge to appoint members to the official Library Board of Trustees.

The Warren Free Public Library was first housed in 1918 in the Phi Delta Kappa rooms over Frank Young's jewelry store. Mrs. Tillie Fleming was the librarian. One small bookcase held the library's total collection of 100 books.

After considering a number of possible locations, the site of the old jail at Third and Main Streets was selected for building the new library. Application was made to the Andrew Carnegie Foundation, which contributed $10,000 for the building. Mr. Carnegie funded the building of over 2,500 public libraries around the world, 2,000 in the U.S. The money received from Mr. Carnegie went into the building above the foundation.

The lot was purchased from the town of Warren. Plans were drawn up by Samuel Craig of Huntington. August Rudlinger, Van Buren, was the contractor. Construction began in 1918. A shortage of supplies during World War I forced delays in construction.

The present building was finally completed in 1920, and on June 5, almost four years to the day after the Warren Free Public Library was first

UNDER THE LAMPLIGHT

Take a young and old hero, add three wealthy young ladies, toss in two despicable villains, gently mix in several wealthy, and not so wealthy, men and women, and you have the recipe for a hilarious evening at the Pulse Opera House. ### FESTIVAL THANKS

WOW! What a Grand Celebration! Great weather – great people – great fun! That was the them for the past weekend as we all celebrated the 40th Salamonie Summer Festival.

I hope you had the opportunity to be a part of it all. From the 40th annual parade to the brand new this year, Laser Light Show, people came out in record numbers!

Huge thanks go out to all of you who helped make this Grand 40th celebration a success. The numerous compliments and record crowds show that we accomplished our mission.

Thanks to all the Warren Area Businesses who gave so generously to cover the cost of the festival and fireworks. None of this would be possible without their continued support. I hope the community will support them in return. To those area residents who gave so generously, we thank you for understanding that a festival of this size requires support from the community. Thanks to all of you we are able to continue this historic event every year.

Everyone in this great little community should be proud of all the hard working people who gave of their time and talent to put together this weekend of events. Heartfelt thanks go out to the Warren Volunteer Fire Department – Warren Town Council – Town of Warren Employees – Salamonie Active Men – and the dozens of festival committee members who work behind the scenes, without recognition to put this all together. These are the people who make you proud to a part of the Warren community!

Great job and thanks for the opportunity to work with all of you over the past year!

Sincerely,
 Vicki L Grim

2007 Salamonie Summer Festival Chairman

THE UPTOWN GARDENER

by Ruth Herring

This uptown gardener is about to classify myself as the Queen of the Weed Patch. What little of it came up is hardly worth the effort, although the tomatoes are looking good but have carried water to them weekly. Potatoes are about ready to dig just hope that there is some under the vines.

At the farm market a gentleman came from Geneva area with some really nice green beans organic grown. I purchased some and they were really good. It is a variety that when cooked they stay green. Hopefully he will return a few times this season. He told me he had nine rows of beans about 50 feet long. They are the folks that had the ice cream at Daugherty's tractor show. The beans I cooked were very good in flavor.

Plan to buy more when he returns.

Have been watering the cabbage and peppers and some are doing well. I need those for the Governor's Sauce I make to take to the market. Soon I will be starting that project.

FISHING DERBY WINNERS

Fishing Derbies were held at all three Upper Wabash Reservoir properties, June 9. Prizes were awarded to those who caught the longest fish. The kids were able to have help from their adults in casting and baiting the hooks, but the kids had to reel the fish in themselves.

Jared Sprinkle of Warren was the 1st place winner in the 2-5 age category of the J Edward Roush Reservoir Fishing derby.

At Salamonie Reservoir Gifford Evan of Warren came in 3rd in the 2-5 age group and Levi Sherman, placed 2nd in the 11-14 age group.

The free fishing derbies drew families from all over northern Indiana. Grand prizes included rods and reels, tackle boxes, and other fishing equipment. Bozarth Recreational Resort donated all bait and prizes for the Salamonie Reservoir Derby. Bud's Fish 'N Hole donated most of the bait and prizes for the J Edward Roush Fishing Derby. Other donations were given by Burnworth Lake and Pond Management, Wal-Mart of Huntington, Woody's Camp & bait and Riverside Sporting Goods.

JOHNSON & SIEBERNS

The LaFontaine Arts Council will continue the 2007 season of "Parlor Music Concerts" at Myers Ice Cream Parlor in Huntington with the "dynamic duo" of Nicole Johnson and Monte Sieberns on Saturday, July 21st at 6:30 P.M. on the lawn at Myers Ice Cream Parlor, located at 2807 Theater Avenue in Huntington.

Nicole and Monte have been performing together for several years in many different venues.

As far back as Monte can recall, he has always been fascinated by sound. Their music selections range from fan favorite oldies to classic rock-n-roll ... and ... from fun lovin' country to heart inspiring Christian selections. Without the benefit of sight, Monte's sense of hearing is very acute and he has used that gift in a tremendous way.

When Monte was in school he became interested in radio and recording. He now owns and operates three companies - all part of the Interstate Audio Group. Monte creates different sounds and tracks for clients all over the world. He also deejays for weddings and special events like the Relay for Life. He currently works full time as the deejay at Oldies 106 in Wabash. His love of records and music brought about his love to sing. Monte has the amazing ability to remember words to many, many songs. Monte and his wife, Karly, live in Huntington with their two children: Karl (11) and Derek (6).

Aside from her family, Nicole Johnson's first love is music - specifically SINGING. Singing has captivated Nicole as far back as she can remember into her childhood. Nicole's love affair with song seems to have all started with her singing for her first audience at her church's vacation bible school program when she was 5 years old. The attention that she received from that audience conceived a dream in Nicole and made her aspire to become a professional singer. She grew up singing everywhere she went and listening to and imitating the styles of Sandi Patti and Whitney Houston's early work. She honed her singing skills throughout her young life singing in her church and then more formally for the HNHS Varsity Singers Choir and then upon graduation was a member of the Ball State University choir.

Today, Nicole sings frequently for her church and in weddings and has also recently paired up with good friend Monte "The Music Man" Sieberns to form an entertaining duo that performs at various small events and holiday celebrations.

Professionally, Nicole enjoys a career as a financial advisor for Edward Jones in Huntington. She and her husband Darren live in southern Huntington County with their three children: Katelynn (10), Nicholas (4), and Braden (2).

Nicole loves to perform through song and hopes all who hear her music have fun and are inspired in some way.

You can book Nicole or the "dynamic duo" of Nicole & Monte for your function by contacting Nicole at (260) 409-5532.

The remaining concerts for the season are listed below.

August 11th 6:30 Barry Jamison, Soloist & Saxophone Player

August 25th 6:30 Kellam & DeaKyne, Vocal Duet

September 9th 4:00 Joe Thomas, Pianist

All the concerts take place on the lawn at Myers' Ice Cream Parlor. Attendees are encouraged to bring a chair/blanket and enjoy food and/or ice cream treats at the Parlor. Questions regarding the concert should be directed to Debbie Dyer at 260/358-0055 or 356-8874. A freewill offering is taken after each concert with proceeds supporting the annual scholarship and the "Arts In Education Series" which provides in-school arts programming sponsored by the LaFontaine Arts Council.

OLDS HONORED AT AIR MUSEUM

Robin Olds, 84, an Air Force brigadier general who was a flamboyant legend of military aviation as a fighter pilot in World War II and Vietnam, died June 14th at his home in Steamboat Springs, Colo. He had congestive heart failure after recent bouts with prostate and lung cancer. He was laid to rest on June 30th.

With this passing, the Hoosier Air Museum, located in Auburn, Indiana invites you to explore a piece of American history.

After Robin Olds retired from a stellar Air Force career, he was contacted by Jim Shuttleworth, an Industrialist in Huntington, Indiana. Jim and Carol Shuttleworth were rebuilding a P-51, which they discovered to be Scat VII, the very plane in which Olds had achieved four kills in WWII. General Olds suggested that the Shuttleworths could build a museum to display the 434th Fighter Squadron memorabilia. The Wings of Freedom museum became a little jewel praised by those who had visited other major air museums as one of the finest they had seen.

Tragedy struck in February 2003 when Scat VII went into an upside down flat spin and Jim lost his life.

A few months later the Hoosier Air Museum offered to place the Wings of Freedom collection in their newly constructed annex to their 100' x 100' hangar. The collection featuring the 434th Fighter Squadron was rededicated in October 2004. The large case with General Olds memorabilia has the flight jacket worn by Olds in WWII and Vietnam.

The hangar at the air museum contains 13 aircraft including a Cobra Helicopter, AT-11, UC-78 (bamboo bomber), Stinson V-77 Gullwing, 1935 Speedbird (one of a kind), Pratt Read Glider, WWI Nieuport, Fokker D-VII replicas, and many others.

It was always the goal of Jim and Carol Shuttleworth to illuminate the lives of the men and women and the sacrifices they endured for our freedom. That has been accomplished in the Wings of Freedom exhibits that can be seen at the Hoosier Air Museum located on the south side of the DeKalb County Airport. Hours are 10:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. Mon-Sat and 1:00 p.m. to 4:00 p.m. Sunday.

For those who wish to send memorials to the Hoosier Air Museum honoring General Robin Olds, the mailing address is P.O. Box 87, Auburn, Indiana, 46706, phone 260-927-0443. Memorial funds will be used to illuminate additional displays currently in storage.

DECLARE YOUR INDEPENDENCE

by The FlyLady, Marla Cilley
In the United States of America we celebrate the anniversary of our Independence Day each 4th of July. The other night a young new reporter said that this was the day we won the war for independence. I thought Robert and I were going to scream our heads off at the TV. We just looked at each other in shock.

We were taught in school that July 4th 1776 was the day the 13 colonies declared their independence from Great Britain. The Boston Tea Party was in December 1773; this was the beginning of our quest for this independence. The battles raged on various fronts all across the 13 Free and Independent States until late 1782.

I woke up this morning to this essay brewing in my head. We all have our own independence days. We don't just wake up one morning and we are free of the stress that is holding us in bondage. We have to declare at least to ourselves that we don't want to live this way another day and set out on our journey to find the peace that we so deserve.

In our perfectionism we just want it to wave our magic wand and have our houses in order, but that is not the real world. We have to go through the struggles to feel the value in what we are doing. This is why it is so important for us to be a part of the independence process! We have to be the one taking charge of our homes.

Let's face it; if someone came in and got rid of all of our clutter we would still be living in CHAOS within just a few days! This is because we had not established the simple habits to keep the clutter from coming back. It takes time and practice to establish these simple habits and string them into routines. The smallest habits help us to win this battle on a daily basis!

Just last night I was talking to Eric Dodge. He was telling me how much having a before bed routine had changed his life. He said that he could no longer go to bed without putting his clothes out for the next day and straightening up his hot spots. I explained to him that I felt that the Before Bed Routine was the most important one of the day! He agreed with me because if he only does his Before Bed Routine his life runs smoothly.

Our routines free us from the bondage of CHAOS! Your Independence Day was the day you decided to join us in our quest for Peace! Every day we have a choice! We can get up and do our routines or we can allow CHAOS to continue to reign in our lives! Every day is a new day! We can jump in right where we are and take the babysteps of our daily habits to celebrate the victory of each day!

Now I am in tears. My sweet darling told me a little proverb. For the want of a nail a horseshoe was lost. For the want of a horseshoe, a horse was lost. For the want of a horse, a horseman was lost. For the want of a horseman the battle was lost and thus the country was lost.

I looked it up and it is a nursery rhyme and it was also quoted by Benjamin Franklin. How appropriate that we come full circle in our thoughts. Since Ben also signed the Declaration of Independence.

"For the want of a nail, the shoe was lost; for the want of a shoe the horse was lost; and for the want of a horse the rider was lost, being overtaken and slain by the enemy, all for the want of care about a horseshoe nail." Benjamin Franklin

So you see even the simplest of habits can make a difference in the way your day progresses. Every habit is a nail to hold your routines together to form the foundation for peace in your life!

You can do this! You have to start someplace! Go shine your sink! That can be your Declaration of Independence!

For more help getting rid of your CHAOS; check out her website and join her free mentoring group at www.FlyLady.net or her book, Sink Reflections published by Bantam and her New York Times Best Selling book, Body Clutter published by Fireside. I trust that all of you had an enjoyable July 4th holiday. It was especially nice for me with the award I received. Thank you to all who have congratulated me, that was the nice part of it talking and shaking hands with the locals about town. That makes two of us in my family who share honor in the parade. Many years ago my dad was with the group of WW1 vets who shared the honor spot. It was special for Dad as well as I.

With summer upon us and all the picnics and family gatherings, the good food always takes the lime light. Here is a good recipe that Wayne's sister, Norene Fuller, makes and gave the recipe to me. It is a cold slaw type recipe with a different twist.

Apple Cabbage Slaw

6 apples chopped fine
 1/2 head of cabbage shredded fine
 1 cup celery diced fine
 1 cup raisins or nut meats chopped.

Mix together and make a dressing of 4 eggs lightly beaten, 1 pint white vinegar, 1 pint sugar, 1 heaping teaspoon butter. Mix all together cook until thickened stirring often. Let cool and pour over the apple cabbage mix. (I make the dressing ahead of time) If using raisins add to the dressing while cooking to plump the raisins. This makes quite a bit and I often make 1/2 recipe. Try it you might like it.

Happy summer and keep cool established, the new building was dedicated. Total construction cost was $11,562.09 (including the lot and basement). At the time of dedication, there were 1,534 volumes on the shelves.

In 1920, Inez (Black) Wilson succeeded Mrs. Fleming as librarian and served in that capacity until 1951. Miriam Redding filled the position for six years, Vilna Smith for the next seven years, and Helen Noffsinger from 1964 to 1986. The present librarian is Rosalie Walter.

In 1953, the Library Board of Trustees, Town Board, and Township Advisory Board all voted to combine and merge the Warren Free Public Library with Salamonie Township and form a single town-township library district.

In the late 1960s the interior of the library was remodeled. The ceiling was lowered and recessed lighting and air conditioning installed.

On December 2, 1974, the Board of Trustees passed a resolution stating that the Warren Free Public Library and/or Warren-Salamonie Township Library (the legal name for tax purposes) would henceforth be known as the Warren Public Library.

In 1976 the library was revamped and redecorated. In 1991 the interior of the library was repainted and new carpet was laid. In 1994 a platform lift was installed on the north side of the library, providing handicapped accessibility. In 1995 the basement was remodeled and the children's department relocated.

Renovation of the main floor was undertaken in 2002. At that time, a new ceiling, lighting, carpet, blinds, and shelving were installed. In 2006, the restroom will be renovated, and new shelving, a flagpole, and a historical marker will be installed.

As the library serves the public in the twenty-first century, technology is playing an increasing role. In 1996, public access computers were installed. Patrons may access the Internet and the online catalog. As envisioned by progressive community leaders who established the library in 1914, the Warren Public Library continues to serve the information needs of Warren, Salamonie Township, and surrounding communities.

The library currently has about 16,000 books, subscribes to 65 magazines, carries local daily newspapers, and has audio and video cassettes, DVDs and music CDs for loan. Most Warren newspapers, dating from December 1878, are on microfilm and can be viewed.

Circulation is automated. By going to the Library's website, www.warren.lib.in.us, iBistro, the card catalog can be viewed.
