The classes of 1956 and 1966 will be recognized as honored classes. All graduates 1946 and before will also be recognized. The class of 1966 will be celebrating 50 years since graduating and was the last class to graduate from Warren.

NOISES OFF OPENS AT THE PULSE APRIL 29

Don't panic! Don't panic! Noises Off is coming to the Pulse Opera House!

The ultimate backstage comedy is a mixture of missed cues and cast drama all while trying to present a production of the fictional farce Nothing On. Audiences can experience the show during rehearsal, backstage during a performance and the final performance when it all falls apart.

The idea for the play came from performances of a play Michael Frayn had written for Vanessa Redgrave. While watching the play from the wings, he thought the backstage show was funnier than what was going on onstage and decided to write a play using that idea. The title comes from a theatrical direction which means "sounds coming from offstage."

The comedy has become a staple both in professional theatre and community theatres worldwide. The most recent Broadway production just closed in March. The show was first

Kudos, Kicks & Karats

STRESS EATING AND YOUR WAISTLINE

from the American Counseling Association

Summer and bathing suit season are just around the corner and that has a lot of us looking in the mirror and wondering how we can make those excess pounds disappear.

While there are a number of reasons for being overweight (sure, you know most of them -- poor food choices, excessively large servings, too much snacking, not enough exercise), one that is often over-looked is stress-related eating, one of the major reasons that people overeat.

Most of us live in a world full of stress. From national tragedies to family problems to traffic jams, we all face situations that add stress to our lives. And, unfortunately, many of us react to that stress by reaching for something to eat.

It's actually a natural reaction. Many foods can affect our moods and feelings. They may remind us of better, simpler times (think comfort foods), or may actually bring chemical reactions that make us feel better (think sugar high), at least for a short while. Over time, we learn that reaching for that candy bar takes our mind off our stress and actually leaves us feeling better. And so we do it.

But how can you avoid using food as a stress reliever?

Start by looking at when and why you're eating. Keep a diary for a few days of when you eat, what you eat and what you're feeling at the time. You may find that the times when you're snacking are the times when you're not feeling hungry, but simply stressed.

A next step is accepting that the food you're consuming is actually doing nothing to relieve your stress. Food doesn't make problems go away and it may even increase stress by leaving you feeling guilty about overeating and excessive weight gain.

Rather than reaching for more food, start analyzing the sources of stress in your life and what you might be able to do to reduce or manage that stress. Look to non-food related activities, like exercising, reading a book or just walking the dog. Spending time with friends or family can help, too. Often simply becoming aware of what triggers your stress-related eating is enough to help you avoid it.

It isn't easy to overcome stress-related eating, but it can be done. If your eating problem is a serious one that's affecting your health, consider consulting a professional counselor who specializes in this area.

 GET WALKIN!
Are you ready to get moving, improve your health and enjoy life more? Get WALKIN' is a free e-mail based walking program being offered through Purdue Extension Huntington County in partnership with the Purdue School of Nursing. Participants can sign-up, walk on their own and receive e-mailed support and information. It is designed to encourage individuals to learn more about the health benefits of walking and encourage individuals to get moving.

Walking is a popular form of physical activity—and good for your health! Only half of all American adults get the recommended amount of physical activity. Lack of physical activity is directly related to the occurrence of adult obesity and overweight. Regular physical activity can lower risk of heart disease, high blood pressure, type 2 diabetes, osteoporosis, depression, and falls in older adults. Walking is an excellent way for most people to increase their physical activity. It is an easy way to start and maintain a physically active lifestyle.
Walking is accessible to almost anyone, doesn't require specific skills or abilities to perform, can be performed alone or with others, and is adaptable (i.e., can be performed at any chosen intensity, and is inexpensive). Walking can serve many purposes. It can be a way to exercise, have fun, or get to school, work, or other nearby destinations. Importantly, making walking easier can help communities by improving safety, social cohesion, and local economies and reducing air pollution.

Do you know that you need to get more active but lack the initiative to get started? Do you make excuses like "I do not have time, I don't want to walk alone, or where would I walk?" Have you started to walk and lost interest or motivation? Get WALKIN' is just for you! You will receive e-mails that provide encouragement, motivation, provide information about health and wellness, and more! Participants will be asked to complete two short online surveys. For more details, contact Karen Hinshaw, Extension Educator in Huntington County at kdhinsha@purdue.edu or 260-358-4826. Before you know it, you will be walking, feeling better, having more energy, and a new healthy habit!

The two credit hour course will take place Mondays through Fridays on the university's campus beginning May 31 and ending June 10.

Founded in 1897 by the Church of the United Brethren in Christ, Huntington University is located on a contemporary, lakeside campus in northeast Indiana. The university is a member of the Council for Christian Colleges and Universities (CCCCU).

HOOSIER HYDRANTS

The La Fontaine Arts Council and the Arts Initiative, Inc., invite area artists to be a part of Indiana's Bicentennial by participating in this year's outdoor art exhibit featuring the fire hydrants in and around the downtown Huntington area.

The theme, "Hoosier Hydrants--Celebrating 200 Years of Indiana History," provides artists with the opportunity to explore the faces, places and spaces of Hoosier history. The hydrants must be painted in a way that is appropriate for public display. Designs that are religious, political or sexual in nature will not be allowed. Corporate logos and advertising are also not permitted.

Artists will not be charged an entry fee. They will receive a stipend for paint and supplies upon the completion of the hydrant and the submission of receipts.

Anyone interested in painting a hydrant should contact LAC Executive Director Debbie Dyer by May 1. The actual painting can begin once artists have been assigned a specific hydrant, and the painting must be completed by May 30.

The exhibit opens on May 30. Maps showing the locations of all the hydrants, the artists who painted them, and the sponsors of the Hoosier Hydrants will be available at Rotary Park in downtown Huntington from 2 to 4 pm that day.

Dyer can be reached by calling 260-358-0055, by emailing ddyer@lafontaineartscouncil.org or by leaving a message on the LAC Facebook page.

UPLAND PHARMACY

Upland Family Pharmacy opened in January 2016 in the Upland Health & Diagnostic building at 1809 South Main Street in Upland, Indiana. It is located in the space formerly occupied by Upland Healthcare Pharmacy. It is a locally owned independent pharmacy open to the public. It is owned and operated by pharmacist Susan Ralston.

Ralston first came to Upland in 1999 as a staff pharmacist at Upland Healthcare Pharmacy, where she became pharmacy manager in 2004 and continued in that position until the pharmacy closed in 2013. She states that she comes from a small town in nearby Huntington county and it did not take long to feel like Upland was home.

"I love getting to know my customers; they feel like family to me. My goal is to take care of this community and help improve the health of my customers," Ralston says. "When I had the opportunity to come back to the Upland community, I could not say no. It has been a lot of work to open the pharmacy, but I love coming to work every day."

Upland Family Pharmacy accepts most insurance plans and carries a variety of over-the-counter products. "Sometimes people have the misconception that a small pharmacy cannot offer competitive prices, but that is not true. Many times we are less expensive than the national chain drug stores," Ralston says. "We can order hard-to-find products and most of the time have them delivered the next day. We also offer a free children and senior vitamin program. We provide a family-like atmosphere with personalized attention and customer service. Transferring a prescription is so easy; just bring in your prescription bottle or call us and we'll do the rest. Our phone number is 765-998-8072. "
