Thought for the Week: Never judge a book by its movie. J. W. Eagan

SHERLOCK HOLMES – S.A.M. TRACTOR PULL THE FINAL ADVENTURE

Opens September 9

The world's greatest detective is returning to the Pulse stage for one final case.

As he nears the end of his career, he is presented with a case which is too tempting to pass up. The King of Bohemia is being blackmailed and needs Holme's help in recovering a scandalous photo. Along with his faithful assistant, Dr. Watson, he embarks on a journey which places him in a dangerous confrontation with his longtime adversary, Professor Moriarty, and the only woman who Holmes could love, Irene Adler.

The first attempt at a play version of Sherlock was written by Sherlock's creator, Arthur Conan Doyle. American producer Charles Frohman read the script and felt it was unfit for the stage, however he felt William Gillette would be perfect for the role of Sherlock.

William Gillette was an actor, playwright and stage manager in the late 19th and early 20th centuries. He approached Doyle offered to not only play the role, but also write the play. Gillette and Doyle collaborated and created a script that was based on Scandal in Bohemia and The Final Problem. Gillette played the role onstage more than 1,300 times in 30 years, starred in a silent movie based on the play and provided the voice for radio versions on Sherlock Holmes. He was the one who created many of the modern images we have of Sherlock, including the deerstalker cap and the curved pipe.

Steven Dietz' highly theatrical adaptation contains mystery, plot twists, intrigue, wit, adventure and humor. This adaptation won the 2007 Edgar Award for Best Mystery Play.

Performances are scheduled for September 9, 10, 11, 16, 17, 18, 23, 24. Tickets are $15 for general admission and $5 for children 12 and under. Friday and Saturday shows are at 8:00 p.m. Sunday shows are at 4:00 p.m. The theatre is located at 127 ½ Wayne Street in Warren. Reservations may be made online at www.pulseoperahouse.org or by leaving a message at 260-375-7017.

This production is recommended for the entire family. Sherlock Holmes: The Final Adventure is presented by Special Arrangement with Dramatists Play Service.

Plans are quickly coming together for the 4-day Labor Day Tractor Pull on the lower shelf of the Knight-Bergman Center.

The event began in 1949 as a Kiwanis event, headed by Merritt Harrison. Long time puller Daniel Poulson was the first place winner astraddle a C-Allis Chalmers, weighing a mere 2800 lbs. In 1999, he again won on a different tractor.

Later, Kenneth Poulson, sporting a new John Deere 2510, began a 49 year run to this present time. Again he will try to nail down first place honors, which has not happened thus far.

The 6,000 to 9,000 lb class will begin at 8:00 pm Friday, September 2nd. All 9000 lb drivers will be allowed to hook, or pass the first round.

They will decided to pass or pull, knowing that they will not have the spot tractor available on their first attempt. This option will be for the first class only since there will be fewer 9000 lb drivers.

Food Alley will open at 5:00 p.m. Friday, providing SAM burgers, roast pork and BBQ, cheesy potatoes, green beans, and cole slaw.

Rise early for biscuits and gravy being served track-side from 6:30 am to 11:00 am.

Lunch menus of ham and cheese sandwiches, hot dogs, roast pork, can be

The Warren Volunteer Firefighters appreciate the Hole Sponsors, donors and Participants. Thank you for supporting YOUR Local Fire Department!

TO THE EDITOR:

I want to thank Heritage Pointe for the wonderful program that was presented on Sunday, August 21. The group "Unclouded Day" was a very talented group of singers and instrumentalists. In fact, two of the performers also play with the Ft Wayne Philharmonic.

Different programs are presented throughout the year. I urge everyone to take advantage of these free programs.

Thanks too, to Kelly Jones and the Activity Department for arranging these programs.

Sincerely,
 Judy Mauger

THANK YOU

A sincere thank you to Ardella and Richard Moriarity, Miami Tool and Die and The Freedom Riders for making the 4th annual Harvest Craft Fair and "Chair-ity" Affair benefiting Huntington County Special Olympics a huge success. A big thank you to all who volunteered, participated, decorated chairs, purchased items from the craft vendors and bought food throughout the day. There were 30 craft vendors and 34 decorated chairs from organizations, churches and individuals in the county.

POVERTY SIMULATION EXPERIENCE

Do you really know what it's like to live in poverty? 32.9 million Americans, 11.7 million of whom are children under the age of 18, live in poverty every day. It is difficult for those who have enough to truly understand the situations that families living in poverty experience every day – the decisions they have to make, and the fears and frustrations they feel.

A Poverty Simulation will be held on Monday, October 3rd at Victory Noll from 6:00-9:00pm. This experience will help you begin to understand what it might be like to live in a typical low-income family trying to survive month to month. Take a couple hours to put yourself in the shoes of someone living in poverty and understand what it is like. Victory Noll is located at 1900 West Park Drive, Huntington, IN.

How does it work? The simulation is conducted in a large room with the "families" seated in groups in the center. Around the perimeter the tables representing community resources and services including: bank, super center, community action agency, employer, utility company, pawn broker, grocery, DFS, payday and title loan facility, mortgage company, and school and childcare facility.

Participants assume the roles of different families facing poverty: newly unemployed, recently deserted by the "breadwinner", recipients of TANF, senior citizens receiving social security and grandparents raising their grandchildren. The task of the "families" is to provide for basic necessities and shelter during the course of four 15 minutes "weeks".

Register for the Poverty Simulation by calling the Extension office at 260.358.4826 or email kdhinsha@purdue.edu.

Registration will begin at 5:45pm on October 3rd. For questions regarding other Extension programs, please contact us: Purdue Extension, Huntington County Office, 260.358.4826 – 1340 S. Jefferson, Huntington, IN.

FIGHT THE FIGHT

Misuse of drugs impacts all Hoosiers – economically, socially and with regards to our health and welfare. Attend this program to find out what you can do to help fight the fight against drugs in our community. You will learn simple ways to make your home and family safer around the dangers of drugs. Many innocent bystanders have been harmed because they didn't realize they could make a difference.

The Purdue Extension Service in Wells County and the Bluffton Parks Department will be presenting Fight the Fight Against Drugs on September 1, 6:00 pm at City Hall.

To register, you can contact the Bluffton Parks Department office at (260) 824-6069. This workshop is free and open to the public.

PHOTO CONTEST

The Wells County Bicentennial Committee is sponsoring a Photo Contest to try to collect a snapshot view of life in Wells County in 2016 to help preserve a small piece of history for the future.

You don't need to be a professional photographer to participate, in fact, the more diverse the photos the better! The committee is just seeking modern photos taken of people or places in Wells County during 2016. Just snap a photo of a person, a unique place in Wells County, candid shots at an event, or really anything you want that represents life in 2016 in Indiana. Or you can use an existing photo that you have taken anytime during 2016. You just have to be the photographer, make sure you have permission to take the photo, and it has to be taken somewhere in Wells County. Bluffton Street Fair photos are definitely recommended, as are candid shots taken throughout the county.

All photos need to be submitted to Emily Marshall at the Wells County Public Library by Friday, September 30th. You can send the high resolution image as an attachment to emarshall@wellscolibrary.org or drop off an 8x10 photo at the Wells County Public Library (200 W. Washington St, Bluffton). Include your name, phone number, where the photo was taken, and a brief description of the photo.

Then make sure to stop by the gallery in the Art's, Commerce & Visitors Centre building in October or the Wells County Public Library in November to vote on your favorites among the Top 100 photos displayed. Photos will also be shared on Instagram and Facebook at Wells County Snap Shots.

Prizes of Chamber Bucks will be awarded to the top winners in each category, including:

- Candid shots
- Portraits/staged photos
- Event photos
- Nature/Landscapes / Buildings
- People's Choice

Prizes have generously been donated by the Friends of the Wells County Public Library and the contest is also sponsored by the Creative Arts Council of Wells County, Wells County Chamber of Commerce & Economic Development, and the Wells County Public Library.

Photos will be judged by area experts and the Creative Arts Council's Camera Club. After the contest photos will be put into a book that's put in permanent collection at the library and also in a time capsule. Other items can be voted on for the time capsule during the month of September at the library.

For more information call the library at 260-824-1612 or visit www.wellscolibrary.org.

TEACHING KIDS TO THINK BIG

WABASH, Ind. – Experts say grit – the character trait that encompasses persistence, determination and resilience – is a stronger predictor of college success than a student's SAT score, IQ or high school GPA. Another big part of a student's success, both academically and in other areas of life, is having what's known as a growth mindset. That includes the ability to embrace challenges, learn from criticism and find lessons in others' successes.

The Indiana Youth Institute (IYI) and Purdue Extension Wabash County are teaming up to host a free event for educators, youth workers, community leaders, parents and other caring adults to learn more about how to help foster those character traits in young people.

The event will run from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Friday, September 9 at Wellbrooke of Wabash, 20 John Kissinger Drive in Wabash.

Tracy Butler, program director for college and career counseling at IYI, will speak to attendees about how to discover important concepts like grit and a growth mindset. Butler will share practical ideas for cultivating these character traits among young people and the impact doing so can have on their futures.

As part of IYI's Youth Worker Café program, the forum and lunch are free, but reservations are required. RSVP at www.iyi.org/ywc. If you have trouble with the link, please contact IYI Statewide Outreach Manager Debbie Jones via email at djones@iyi.org.

This café is funded in part by the Community Foundation of Wabash County. Youth Worker Cafés are designed to bring together local youth workers to build relationships and inspire collaborations that will benefit children.

FINDING POSITIVE WAYS TO HANDLE THE LOSS OF A JOB

from the American Counseling Association While reports indicate the current economy is pretty good for most people, and that unemployment is at its lowest level in years, the good news doesn't hold true for everybody. Every day, people across the country learn that they are being let go.

And regardless the reason for being terminated, it is never a pleasant experience.

The financial burden of losing a job is its most noticeable effect, but there can also be significant mental and emotional stress.

Experts say reactions to a termination are often similar to what we experience upon the death of a loved one or the end of a relationship -- immediate reactions of shock and denial, and of finding it difficult to accept what has happened.

These reactions are often followed by anger. And while those who took away your job may be the direct, unfortunately the anger is usually taken out on those closest to you. You may find yourself tense and stressed, more easily upset and quicker to react harshly to family and friends.

Some people become preoccupied with trying to get that old job back, no matter how unrealistic or even undesirable that might be. A person may also experience sadness and depression along with questioning his or her worth and abilities.

Understanding that these are all normal reactions can help someone get through them quicker, accept the job loss and start creating a new work life.

Start to help yourself through the trauma of job loss by not adding extra stress to your life. It's not a time for major life changes, but rather to continue living normally. Eat healthy, exercise, get plenty of rest and keep socially involved, maintaining contact with friends and family.

It's also a good time to evaluate and set future goals. Is now a time for more education, to look to a new career field or to sharpen up your job skills? Have you evaluated what will make you feel rewarded and fulfilled in a new job? Are you using your network of family, friends and other contacts to help in your job search? Rather than dwelling on the lost job, focus on what's to come.

If you find job loss is overwhelming you, consider working with a professional counselor specializing in career guidance. He or she has the training, guidance and tools to help you to a more positive future.

FAMILY, FRIENDS KEY IN HELPING MILITARY, OVERSEAS CITIZENS VOTE IN 2016 ELECTIONS

(StatePoint) Family and friends are vital connections to life back home for Service members and U.S. citizens overseas. During election years, many military and overseas voters cite family members and friends as important sources of voting information.

An easy way to help loved ones in the military or abroad to vote absentee is by referring them to the Federal Voting Assistance Program (FVAP), which provides tools and resources to ensure that American citizens who want to vote can do so from anywhere in the world.

Voters can visit FVAP.gov to find state-by-state official registration and ballot request deadlines, as well as information on completing a Federal Post Card Application (FPCA), which is the registration and ballot request form, or the Federal Write-In Absentee Ballot (FWAB), the backup ballot. Both forms are available at

THE UPTOWN GARDENER by Ruth Herring

Well Mom is still a little under the weather so, I am penning this week's edition. I really tried hard to talk my sister in to taking her turn, but that didn't work. So your stuck with me. HaHa.

Many things have happened in the past several weeks that are weather related and I must say praise the Lord for no casualties. Many have been very lucky. We were talking the other day about what to do if a tornado were to strike our town. Most are fortunate to have a basement, but many don't. My daughter for one does not along with my mother and all of her neighbors. So here is a little recap of what happens to your home if it should be struck by a tornado. Then you can be the judge as to where you should be in your home.

As a tornado heads towards your home it brings flying debris that shatters windows and pounds away at exterior walls. The winds blowing over the roof exert an uplift motion which will start tearing away at the shingles and roof beams. The busted windows allow air to enter the home and fill the home like a balloon with pressure from the tornado, which causes the ceiling to put pressure on the remaining roof and therefore the roof will basically blow off the house. They recommend that you DON'T open your windows and doors anymore.

With the roof gone, the walls are next. The exterior walls are flimsy and not well attached to each other at the corners, without a roof there is nothing supporting outside walls and they will probably just fall over or in worse cases go flying.

When a tornado spins in a cyclical motion most houses are hammered with straight line winds so the side walls parallel to the direction of the winds will go first because they feel the most suction. The front windward wall gets pushed in by the tornado and finally the back wall of your home blows out. This all happens in approximately four seconds.

The last bits of the house that gets hit by the tornado are the interior walls. Small central rooms such as a bathroom or closet are probably the best bet for survival. An interior room gives you a couple of layers of protection that debris has to go through before it hits you and as always, try to hide under sturdy objects such as stairwells or anything that is anchored down and always try to cover yourself from flying glass and debris.

So remember this, once the roof goes, outside walls are next which opens your house to full suction from the tornado, which is why we see clothes, toys, personnel belongings strung all about and cars up in trees or flipped over on their tops in the neighbors yards or worse case a couple blocks away.

When on the road, get out of your car and lay down in a deep ditch or if at all possible in a culvert or up on the highest peek of an underpass and hang on to any thing you can. But I must warn you if you are in deep ditches and culverts be prepared for flash flooding.

Lets hope and pray none of us ever have to follow these little reminders, but if so I hope it will save some lives. We have a good county wide alert system, so even if the sirens blow and there is not a cloud in the sky, check your weather station to be sure a neighboring county is not getting hammered by a storm and its heading our way. You never know if a storm pops up like we have seen in previous days.

Be safe and have a wonderful rest of the summer. Treva

TIPS TO PREVENT THE SPREAD OF BACK-TO-SCHOOL GERMS

(StatePoint) Back-to-school is an exciting time of year for families, but it also means new exposures to germs.

From school desks found to have 400 times more bacteria than the average toilet, to personal items like backpacks and cellphones, germs are everywhere. Taking steps to reduce exposure can make for a healthier school year ahead.

Remember to wash hands and your items frequently -- did you know that backpacks have 10,000 germs per square inch? Then, use shelf liner in areas of your home where school items are stored for extra protection. Try using Easy Liner brand shelf liner by Duck brand with Clorox antimicrobial protection, which protects the liner from the growth of mold and mildew. Plus, the liners can be tossed in the wash for easy cleaning.

Parents can help keep classrooms cleaner by providing teachers with disinfecting wipes and shelf liner to protect desks, drawers and shelves.
