HOMECOMING WEEKEND

Plan ahead and keep the weekend of October 13 &14 open! The McNatt Church will start off on Saturday night with our annual Barn Dance at Ben and Kelly Morton's Big Red Barn. Come by at about 6:30 for some food, fire, fellowship and fun! Bring your favorite snack, dancin' shoes and partner and even the kids.

Sunday morning will continue the festivities. Our morning service will include some special music by the Schweikhardt Boys, some memorable moments by Stan Morton, and the stained glass mural crafted by Karen West will be dedicated. This was from a memorial gift from the estates of Delight Parker and Vernis Baker.

A carry-in dinner will follow the morning service at about 11:45. Ya'll come!!

WARREN COUNCIL

The Warren Town Council met at 6:30 p.m. Monday evening, Aug. 27, at the local Fire Station. President Harold Jones opened the meeting with the Pledge to the American flag.

In special order of business a Public Hearing was held on the 2001 Municipal Budget. The Budget is expected to be adopted at the next regular Council meeting.

Approval was given to the minutes of the regular Council meetings of July 23 and Aug. 13, and an Executive and Special Session July 26.

A further check of the Utilities in the area is expected before Ordinance 2001-9, vacation of a portion of Sixth Street, is adopted. The possible need for an easement to access utilities must be determined.

A Wastewater Project meeting had been held on Aug. 22 at 1 p.m. in the Town Hall Annex. Plans are underway to accept bids

GRANDPARENTS DAY, SEPTEMBER 9

It's becoming a popular tradition. Through National Grandparents Day was officially recognized in 1978, observance was spotty until recent years. Now, the first Sunday after Labor Day is becoming an anticipated time to visit with grandparents in person or on the telephone.

Last year, the AARP Bulletin asked readers about their own experiences in order to learn more about the state of grandparenting today. Some of their findings:

- The youngest grandparents were in their 40s, and the oldest in their late 90s
- · Most had only a few grandchildren, but about 5 percent had 20 or more.
- Only a third live less than 25 miles away and are able to see grandchildren more than once a week.
- · For most, only occasional visits are possible. They keep in touch by visiting and talking on the phone. A few use e-mail.
- Five percent of respondents were raising their grandchildren.

The most satisfying thing about grandparenting appears to be the opportunity to give love without the burden of having to discipline kids. Other grandparents named the joy of watching kids grow, teaching them things, and doing projects together like cooking, fishing, and

Many respondents said the hard part of grandparenting is keeping up with active children.

Divorce often makes it difficult for grandparents to maintain relation-

Overall, however, grandparenting continues to be one of life's most enjoyable experiences. The world changes all the time, but the bond between grandparents and grandchildren remains essentially the same

FALL IS A COOL TIME TO GO CAMPING

Spring is rainy, and summer is hot. Now that fall is upon us, the best time to go camping has arrived. With a little know-how, you can get away from civilization for a few days and have a safe, enjoyable time. Here's how to do it:

- 1. Check your equipment, especially your tent. Add a tarp to throw over the tent if it rains hard. Check your compass, first-aid kit, and flashlights.
- 2. Make a checklist of supplies you'll need, such as clothing that can be layered, comfortable boots, food, water, matches, bug repellant, and sunscreen. Take more water and food than you think you will need.
- 3. Practice. Set up your tent in the yard and sleep in it one night. It will remind you of other items you want to take. Never use a heater or stove inside your tent. It could cause a fire.
- 4. Drive carefully. Vehicle accidents are common for campers. Drive slowly and watch for animals and kids
- 5. Cooking on a camp stove is best, according to the National Park Service. Fires may spread, and burned ground is not pretty. Animals may have an eye on your dinner, so pack food in the trunk of the car after meals are finished.
- 6. Always wear a life jacket in a boat and avoid alcohol while boating Don't swim in deep water without a lifeguard. Never go hiking or swimming alone.
- 7. Don't cut down trees or carve on them. Follow the rule: "Take nothing but photos. Leave nothing but foot prints."
- 8. Watch the children. Make sure they know their full name, telephone number, and address. Get an ID bracelet for younger children. 9. Pets are OK if rules allow them. Keep dogs on a leash if they don't always respond to your commands. Clean up after them.
- 10. You are in the natural territory of animals. Make noise if you are near bears or mountain lions. They avoid; human contact. Never touch an animal, no matter how harmless it looks. It's still wild.

in December with construction expected to start by April.

According to reports concerning the water project, all bricks have been laid and a full crew was expected for the remainder of the week to continue the Project.

Activities were said to be progressing for the "Indiana Downtown" Project, and a survey is to be taken which will continue through the second week of September.

Ordinance 2001-10, Primary Election, was read and it is expected to be adopted at the next Council meeting.

Ordinance 2001-11 was introduced and adopted concerning Salary Ordinance.

The United REMC Connection Policy had been submitted to Greg Gerrettog for consideration. A connection policy will be added to the Town Code.

Linda Devers, representing 3A Development District Community Development, talked about the organization. They represent five counties in Indiana, including Huntington and can assist in several types of assistance.

IDEM Directive-CSO long term plan program was discussed. Bice reported that the development of the program is underway.

Clerk-Treasurer Marilyn Morrison presented the July Financial report to Council

Darrel Bice gave a project report from the Utility/Street Departments. Projects included work on electric lines on 1000S, two hydrants put in, water leaks repaired and water meters read.

Bids were opened for the purchase of a new street sweeper. These included Brown Equipment of Fort Wayne, $48,000 with $5,000 trade-in, making the bid $43,000; and Deeds Equipment Company, $54,000 with no trade-in. Council accepted the bid from Brown Equipment. The sweeper is being partially funded through a Grant from IDEM.

Council also agreed to purchase a leaf vac from Brown Equipment at a price of $26,000. The purchase agreement allows for one-half of the payment in 2001 with the other half due in six months, allowing for application for grant funds in the amount of $13,000.

Darrel Bice, Lee Poulson and Chuck Booher were granted permission to attend a morning meeting of AWWA at Decatur.

Lee Poulson and Darrel Bice are also expected to attend an Alliance of Rural Water Conference at Fremont.

Council also agreed to replacement and repair of town equipment, including a 12-volt pump, a pipe and road cutting saw, and repair to their pole truck.

Town Marshal Steve Donnelly was attending a training session this week. Council agreed to purchase materials for the Department at a reduced cost.

Fire Chief Tim Ford reported training for new firemen is almost completed.

A battery was replaced in the 3571 truck.

Announcements included: Sept. 10, 24, Council meetings; Sept. 10, Adoption of Budget.

OPENS OFFICE IN

In the past, many residents of Huntington and the surrounding areas have had limited opportunities when wanting to return to college to complete their bachelor's or master's degree. Usually the choice they had involved driving to either Fort Wayne, or South Bend.

Now, those days are a thing of the past. Indiana Institute of Technology announced the opening of its newest office, dedicated to serving adult students in Huntington, Indiana Tech, widely known as The University for Working Adults, features a unique collegedegree program designed for working professionals that offers accelerated five-week semesters. Students can earn their bachelor's degree in one-third the amount of time it would normally take to complete the degree through a traditional program. Classes meet one night per week and are held in Huntington and the surrounding areas. Unlike most traditional college degree programs students can elect to defer tuition payments until after the class is completed, register for classes over the telephone, by email, or on the web, and have textbooks shipped directly to their homes. The most unique feature is that class materials are included in the cost of tuition (that includes textbooks

Indiana Institute of Technology began offering classes in Huntington six years ago to serve students at various companies in that area, "Offering classes where it is convenient for students has long been the university's philosophy, states Kathleen Stahl, Director of Admissions for the greater Fort Wayne area. "We hold classes at various communities surrounding Fort Wayne: Huntington, Andrews, and Bluffton, to name a few. During our nearly 20 years of serving the working adult student through non-traditional programs. we have found that it is critical for classes to be held in a location that is convenient for the student to attend.

The University's decision to open an office in Huntington was quite simple, according to Stahl; "We have had a lot of interest from the area and felt that the best way to serve that student populace was to open an office in Huntington. By staffing an office in the community, we can offer students all the essential services that support college-level classes, without forcing our students to drive to Fort Wayne."

Indiana Tech, a private non-profit institution accredited by the Higher Learning Commission of the North Central Association and Schools, was established in 1930 and has campuses in Fort Wayne, Indianapolis, and South Bend. The Accelerated Degree Program was designed to give working adults the opportunity to earn a college education without the restrictions of a traditional program. The University offers adult students associate-, bachelor- and masterlevel degrees in business administration without having to sacrifice career or family obligations. Many companies offer their employees the opportunity to attend classes at their place of employment. Dana, UPS, General Motors, United Technologies, GTE, Federal Express, arid Johnson Controls are among those companies that have held classes at their facilities for their employ-

"We are pleased to enhance our services to Huntington-area students," states urn Bishop, Vice President of Extended Studies. "Adult education has been a part of the University's philosophy since the end of World War II. Originally, we served returning war veterans who were looking to establish a new life for themselves after service to their country; today we are designed for the working adult with career and family commitments in addition to educational desires. Our Extended Studies Division has been very successful at our campuses in South Bend, Fort Wayne, and Indianapolis. Enrollment in the Extended Studies Division exceeded 2,500 students last year, and we continue to grow as the word about our University continues to spread. We are excited about the program, and the initial response we have received in the Huntington area has been encouraging.

Pam Wayman, Program Manager of the Huntington office for the rapidly expanding university, commented, "Our students are mature adults, and we treat them as such. We strive to remove the obstacles normally involved with attending college. At Indiana Tech, you won't find students standing in line at the registrar's office, the bursar's office, or even the bookstore. The office staff handles all the 'administrative functions' of attending college. That means: our students are free to concentrate on one thing. . education."

Indiana Institute of Technology is located at 960 East State Street, Huntington, Indiana 46750. For further information call Pam Wayman, Program Manager at (219) 359-TECH.

DEADLINE FOR YOUTH ESSAY CONTEST IS OCT.19

Attention all eighth graders; get ready to write because entries are now being accepted for the Sen. Dick Lugar/Indiana Farm Bureau/Bank One Youth Essay Contest. The two best essays that address this year's contest theme, "World-Wide Meals from Hoosier Farms," will win a trip to Washing-

A boy and girl will be selected as winners from each county and each IFB district. District winners will receive a $50 savings bond. Then, the boy and girl with the best overall essays at the state level will receive an all-expensepaid trip to the nation's capitol. State winners will be announced in December at IFB's annual convention.

This year's theme encourages students to think about the worldwide impact that Indiana agriculture has, said Carolyn Hegel, IFB second vice president

"Estimates indicate that in the next 50 years, the world's population will grow from 6 billion to 9 billion people. We want students to research and then creatively describe ways Hoosier farms and food processors can satisfy the world-wide demand for food created by all those consumers," Hegel continued.

Essays must not exceed 300 words. They can be typed or handwritten in blue or black ink. They will be judged on the correct use of grammar and spelling, understanding of the topic, neatness, overall appearance of the essay, originality and creativity.

All Hoosier eighth graders are eligible to enter the contest, which is designed to increase students' awareness of the significance of Indiana agriculture and how it relates to the food supply and their health.

Principals or supervising teachers must submit all student essays. Essays must be sent to the IFB county woman leader in the county where the school is located, and they must be postmarked by Oct. 19.

For more information on the contest, contact school principals, county Farm Bureau offices or the Indiana Farm Bureau Women's Division at (317) 692-7830.

STORYTIME

Nine children attended Afterschool Storytime at the Van Buren Public Library. Labor Day was celebrated. Karen read the historical background of Labor Day and read a writing by Walt Whitman "I Hear America Sing." Short biographies on Mary Harris Jones better known as Mother Jones and John L. Lewis were read These were two famous labor leaders.

Games were played. The children formed two production lines and assembled a small water squirt toy. They then had fun filling up a bag with different items to see what production line would win. They also did a search-aword with different occupations.

Refreshments of graham crackers, chocolate and marshmallows were served along with koolaid to drink

Kayleigh Hylton met the challenge and brought two new children and all three received a food coupon from McDonalds. The challenge is still on for next Wednesday. If you were at storytime Wednesday August 22nd or 29th and you bring a friend you and your friend will receive a food coupon. Next storytime will be Wednesday September Grandparents Day and Monarch Day will be celebrated.

Those attending were: Kayleigh Hylton, Kayla Purvis, Ashley Kerr, Amy Kerr, Alisha Dailey, Phillip Dailey, Brittni-lynn Davis, Cassie Davis and Harley Denham.

BETTER LIVING

The Better Living Extension Club met August 21 at the Methodist Home for the noon meal and meeting. Marjorie Gard led in giving the Club Creed and the Pledge to the Flag.

Roll call was answered by fifteen members and three guests; Ruth Zook, Lorraine Crawford and Sharon Boundy. The County Trip will be September 26.

The highlight of the meeting was Sharon Boundy telling about the trip she, her husband, son and daughter-in-law made to Romania, homeland of her daughter-inlaw. She had excellent pictures and interesting happenings to tell us about Romania, a country slowly developing after years of dictatorship rule.

The September 18th meeting will be held at the Methodist Home at noon. Marjorie Gard closed the meeting by leading the group in the Club Collect.

OVER THE HILL

That devastating word, that goes with age ---- Exercise

I find myself in that point of my life when a word can set me in complete chaos! That word is exercise. I will admit that I need to "cool my jets" when that particular word is brought into conversation. It seems that it (the word) is used a lot in Doctor's offices or hospital rooms occupied by this novice writer and the Doctor or Specialist. Being somewhat overweight I should get used to hearing this word from everyone from the mailman to the lifeguard at my favorite beach! But I am still fighting it.

At this writing I have been on a diet for 10 days and have gained 4 pounds! I have used everyone's scales except the Department of Transportation, whoa is me, all with the same results. I am doing my best to lose weight. The Othopedic Surgeon that I saw a few weeks ago will have a fit if he places me on his scales. Could I inhale enough Helium to weigh less? At our last meeting he quickly said in passing conversation, "it would help if you would lose twenty pounds before you see me again." My time is almost up and I still am my same old "fat

He placed me in therapy for two weeks. I bent, bowed, moved my abdomen up and down; I tightened by buttocks and my middle many times for the Therapist, to no avail. When I placed my frame on the scales I was still not gaining anything on losing weight! I pedaled, I skied, I jumped up and down, I placed my body against the wall and did knee bends, these did me some good, but exercise seems to run me down instead of picking me up. Why?

I even purchased a book. My problem is arthritis. It has invaded my back and legs. This book tells you all. How to get in and out of a car, how to get in and out of bed, how to make the bed, how to do the laundry, how to lift properly. This is better for your posture and a healthful way for better living. Your rest is important to your entire system. Your body must rest to strengthen your condition. It is all tied to exercise!

I have to walk in water everyday. I wrote to a friend in Indianapolis, email, and I said in the same email. that I was walking on water instead of in water. He emailed me back and said "I only know of one man that ever walked on water, and I am sure it is and will never be vou." I had to agree

Anyway I am exercising and telling everyone I like it. I guess I appreciate my Doctor and family that are trying to help me out of this age-old problem. Thank you all. Meanwhile leave me alone until I finish my "jumping jacks."

RECALL OF TEA LIGHT LAMPS

WASHINGTON, D.C.-In cooperation with the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission (CPSC). Hallmark Specialty Retail Marketing Group Inc., of Kansas City, Mo., operating under the name Hallmark Creations, is voluntarily recalling about 1,300 metal and plastic tea light lamps. The plastic shade that covers the tea light candle can melt, posing a fire hazard

Hallmark has received three reports of the lampshade melting. No injuries have been reported.

The lamp has a clear plastic lampshade that covers a base for holding candles. A dark brown curved S-shaped support wire that is decorated with leaves supports the lampshade. The recalled lamp is about 12-inches tall and 4inches in diameter. The labels on the bottom of the base read "Creations" and "MADE IN TAIWAN."

Hallmark Creations stores nationwide sold these lamps from January 2001 through May 2001 for about $12.

Consumers should stop using the lamps immediately and return them to a Hallmark Creations store for a refund. For more information, call Hallmark toll-free at (800) 425-5627 between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. CT Monday through Friday.

AIDSWALK AND

FESTIVAL

Hundreds of walkers will gather on September 9 in Lawton Park, 4th and Clinton Streets, next to Science Central, in downtown Fort Wayne between noon and 2 p.m. to take part in the 5th annual AIDSWalk, a 5-kilometer walkathon and festival to benefit HIV-impacted Hoosiers in northeast Indiana, The Walk itself will step off from Lawton Park at 2 p.m. and will follow the Rivergreenway and several downtown streets and residential areas. The purpose of this annual event is twofold: to raise awareness of HIV and AIDS and to raise funds for the AIDS Task Force, Inc., a not-for-profit provider of HIV prevention education and free care coordination services for the HIVinfected, serving eleven counties of northeast Indiana.

Organizers of the 2001 AIDSWalk, a 20-member volunteer committee, hope to raise $65,000 at this year's AIDSWalk.

The honorary chair of the AIDSWalk 2001 will be Ruben Rodriguez, a 19-year survivor of HIV and a longtime activist for prisoners with HIV from Brooklyn, New York. The accompanying festival will feature live music, a Names Project AIDS Memorial Quilt display honoring people who have died of AIDS, a display of AIDS-themed doors created by University of St. Francis art students, a health information fair, concessions door prizes, and a moonwalk and playground for children. Performers include the bands Blind Justice and R & R Crossing, the Dekalb High School Show Choir, and the Northside High School Jazz Band.

AIDSWalks have been held in Indiana for eleven years. The effort began in Indianapolis, with most participants from central Indiana. In 1997, the AIDS Task Force, Inc. hosted the first regional AIDSWalk in Indiana. Other regions have since organized similar AIDSWalks to benefit the programs and clients in their regions.

The funds raised by the AIDSWalk are more critical than ever. Though many people are reassured that people are living longer with HIV, the reality is that new HIV infections continue to rise, and the client load of the AIDS Task Force is larger than ever. The Task Force provides case management services to 220 persons living with HIV and HIVIAIDS education to more than 7,000 people annually within the following counties: Adams, Allen, DeKalb, Huntington, LaGrange, Kosciusko, Noble, Steuben, Wabash, Wells and Whitley counties. The agency, founded in 1985 is a multi-program AIDS service organization, providing HIV/AIDS awareness, HIV prevention education, and case management for persons living with HIV. The AIDS Task Force is a not-for-profit organization with a 501 (C)(3) status, and all donations to AIDSWalk are tax-deductible.

For more information or to register for the Walk and receive pledge materials, please call 219-744-1144 or come by the AIDS Task Force offices at 2124 Fairfield Avenue in Fort Wayne.

Making Strides Against Breast Cancer

Northeast Indiana residents are invited to join the American Cancer Society on Saturday, October 13, as the nation's largest public health organization wages an attack on breast cancer by holding its fourth annual Making Strides Against Breast Cancer walk in Northeast Indiana.

This national walk event has quickly become the largest community event in support of breast cancer research in the United States with 48 cities participating in 2001 raising more than $50 million since 1993.

"The American Cancer Society is the largest public health organization in the country," said Peter Rinn, American Cancer Society Area Executive Director, "And we are attacking the number one health issue facing women today by hosting the largest single-market community event benefiting breast cancer research in the country right here in Fort Wayne."

This year 4,400 women will be diagnosed with breast cancer in Indiana and 900 women will die of the disease.

Last year the Northeast Indiana Making Strides Against Breast Cancer raised over $95,000 for breast cancer research, education, advocacy, and patient service programs.

The American Cancer Society is the largest nonprofit funder of breast cancer research and services in the United States.

Making Strides Against Breast Cancer is a noncompetitive walk that will start and finish at Headhatter Park in Fort Wayne. On Saturday, October 13, registration begins at 8:30a.m. and the walk starts at 10:00a.m. Anyone interested in joining the fight against breast cancer and participating in Making Strides Against Breast Cancer as a walker or a volunteer is encouraged to contact the American Cancer Society at 219-471-3911.

The American Cancer Society is the nationwide, community-based, voluntary health organization dedicated to eliminating cancer as a major health problem by preventing cancer, saving lives and diminishing suffering from cancer, through research, education, advocacy, and service.

For more cancer information, call 800 ACS.2345 or visit www.cancer.org.

FUNDRAISING SEMINAR

INDIANAPOLIS, IN - Staff and volunteers at nonprofit youth organizations in Indiana can apply for scholarships to attend "Fundraising for Small Nonprofits," a two-day course to be presented in Muncie on September 11 & 12, 2001.

A limited number of scholarships are available from the Indiana Youth Institute, providing substantial savings for youth workers who wish to sharpen their basic fundraising skills.

The course will teach youth agency fund raisers how to build a convincing case for financial support, select the potential donors and markets best suited to their mission and choose the correct fundraising methods. With an IYI scholarship, youth professionals will pay only $45 for this course, which normally costs $360. Scholarships are awarded to qualified applicants on a first-come, first-served basis.

The training is taught by faculty from The Fund Raising School, part of The Center on Philanthropy at Indiana University, which is nationally known for its outstanding instruction in fund raising planning and techniques.

"The Center on Philanthropy is the nation's premiere provider of fund raising training," says Bill Stanczykiewicz, executive director of the Indiana Youth Institute. "We are certain this course will help Hoosier youth workers strengthen their organizations to continue the good work they do with Indiana's kids."

The Muncie course will take place at the Muncie Children's Museum, 515 South High Street, from 8 am. to 5 pm. To apply for an Indiana Youth Institute scholarship, call Shonda Russell at IYI, 800-343-7060 ext. 15 or download an application form from www.iyi.org. Application forms are also available by fax by calling 877-550-FAXX (document #721). Applications must be received by September 4, 2001 to be considered.

The Indiana Youth Institute promotes the healthy development of children and youth by serving the institutions and people of Indiana who work on their behalf.
